'Baseball is for all kids'

The girls of summer

Katie, Hannah among names on Diamondback baseball rosters; Katie leads team in runs scored

The girls of summer win baseball games along with their teammates.

To play baseball, females head over to Lake Villa Township Youth Baseball to join teams like the Arizona Diamondbacks, a team sponsored by Porter Power Electric Company in Lake Villa.

This summer, the 12-player Diamondbacks roster included names like Katie Korecek, 12, and Hannah Michal, 11.

This is not unusual. It is, even, almost common.

"There never has been any restriction. We never gave it a thought," said Rich Coles of the youth baseball league.

"Baseball is for all kids."

That includes the women who turn out to throw, catch, and hit.

"Most of them do real well," he said. Coles has coached four or five females on his teams over the years.

"The ones that do step forward are very good and very competitive," he said.

Indeed, if they play well enough on their team, they may be selected to play on the late summer traveling team.

"Katie has made the traveling all-star team," said Kurt Rutz, her coach on the Diamondbacks.

"She's very competitive. She knows the game well; she plays the game well."

Korecek is only one member of the team, however. Rutz said that the entire team had some very committed players. By the last two weeks of the season, Rutz said that a majority of the team was putting in extra time before games to work on fielding and to prepare themselves.

"It paid off for us," he said.

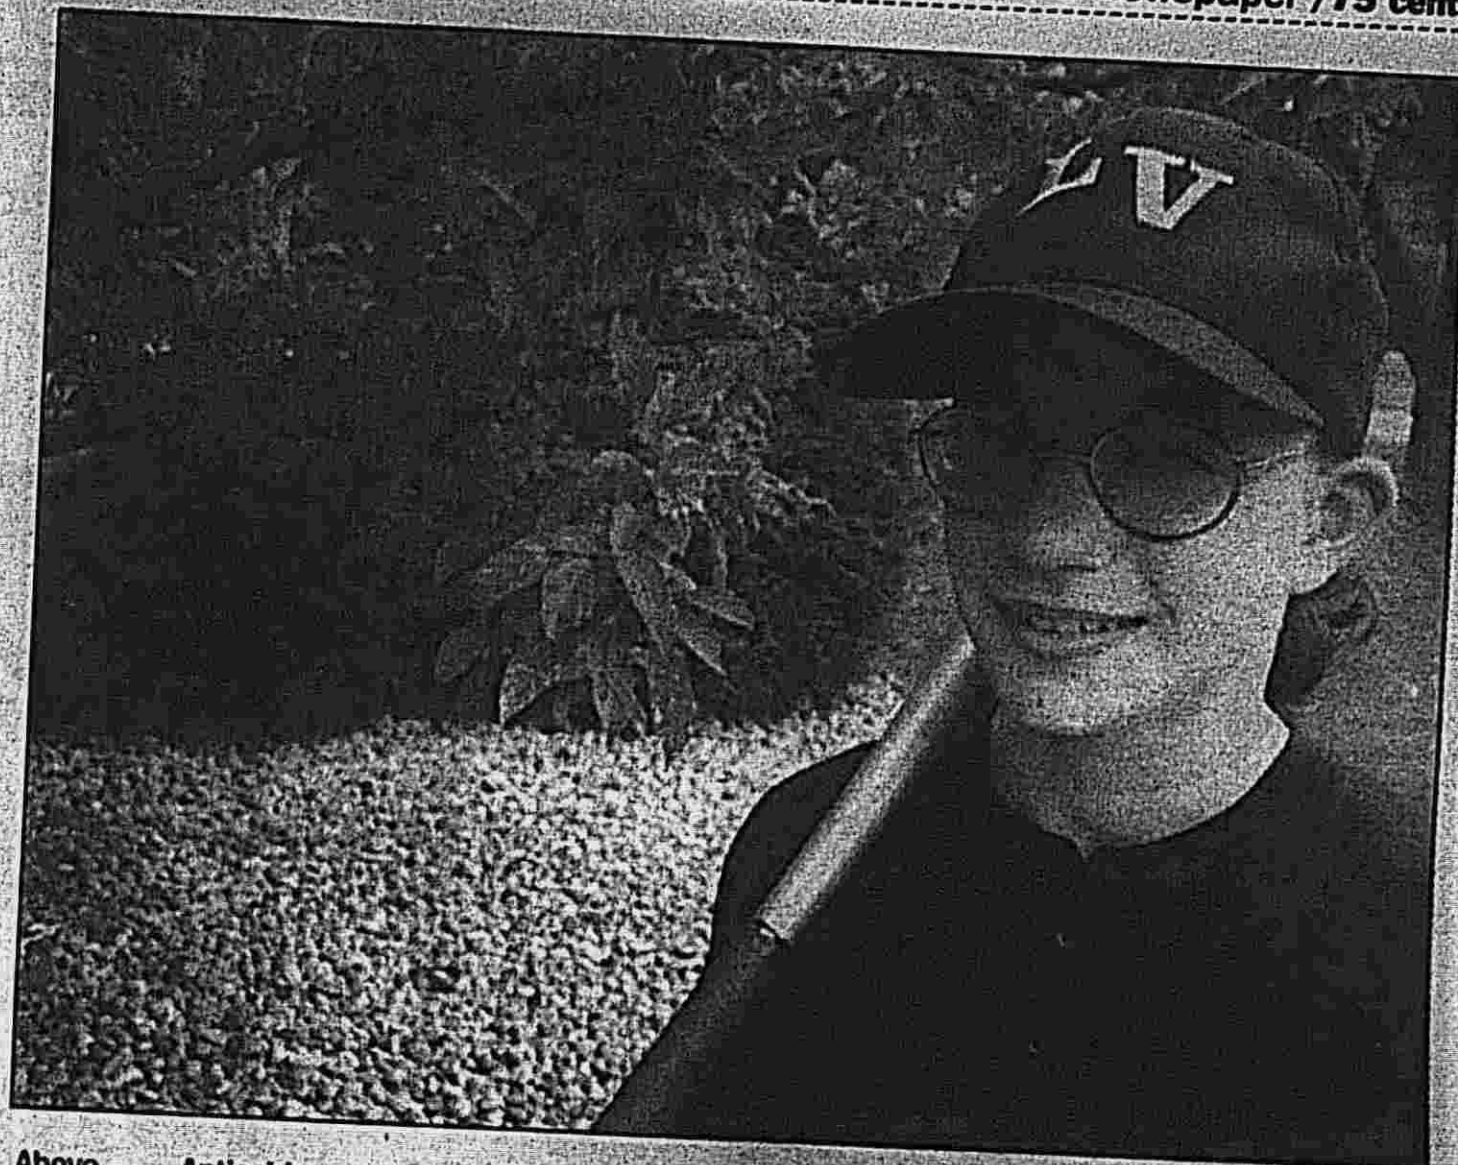

The Diamondbacks roster included Bobby Truckenbrod, of Round Lake Beach.

Players from Lake Villa were Patrick Lepper, Nathan Porter, and

Auction, Chicken barbecue set to roll, Sunday

Annual event Aug. 2 at Williams' Park

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Of the events that help people feel part of small town Antioch, the Lions Club Barbecue and Rescue Squad Auction is one of the oldest and most popular.

The Sunday, Aug. 2 barbecue and auction at Williams' Park from noon to late afternoon is a chance to eat, to be entertained, to buy swell stuff, and to support emergency rescue volunteers and personnel.

The barbecue is a quickly served meal, because of assistance from the Antioch Junior Women's Club. The sale of donated items moves quickly. Also helping with the events are volunteers from the Antioch Woman's Club.

"We'll have an item for anybody who will want anything," said Wayne Sobczak, chief of the Antioch Rescue Squad.

Steve Smouse, auction chairman for the rescue squad, said that they hope to move the auction along faster this year to provide more opportunities for people to participate. They have done this with a treasure booth area and a silent auction event, in addition to the professional auctioneer. It provides more ways for people to support the rescue squad rather than just through auction bids.

"We have lots of neat stuff," Smouse said. "We've got some wicker furniture and an antique wicker baby buggy."

Three boat slips have been donated for the 1999 season from Dolphin Harbor, Grass Lake Landing, Inc., and Spring Lake Marina.

"Walter Koziel has donated a brand new tractor."

Smouse said that he expected there would be meats that people could bid on. Thelen Sand and Gravel, Pedersen GMC, and State Bank of The Lakes have, historically, strongly supported the rescue squad auction with donations of frozen livestock.

The Antioch Woman's Club and the Antioch Junior Woman's Club both provide volunteers to assist with the half-day event.

Rosemary Ferguson and Vi Mattson organize the volunteers who serve at the barbecue and auction.

"We provide desserts," said past-president Mabel Lou Weber of the Woman's Club. "They are all individually baked."

"It's their choice as to what they bake."

Volunteers bake pies, cakes, and cookies that can be purchased to go along with the half-chicken dinner sold by the Lions. It makes a complete meal.

"We're also selling raffle tickets for Beanie Babies," Weber said. A ticket for the hard to find, special toys for children are $5, although six tickets may be bought for $25.

The Junior Women's Club helps to serve the chicken barbecue meals. Junior Women's Club volunteers help to keep the line moving quickly since there are so many people to help to serve the chicken dinners.

"The Junior Women's Club does the treasure booth," said Smouse. It is an alternative way for people to pay directly for items. There also is a silent auction which runs through the course of the afternoon.

Steve Smouse said that donations for the auction were still coming in. He expects that it will be one of the best auctions ever. He hopes that people will come to help out the community and enjoy the barbecued chicken.

GIRLS: Hold their own on baseball roster

Ryan Heerma.

The remainder of the roster filled out from Lindenhurst: Dusty Urbanik, Austin Kelley, Michael Delise, Matt Rutz, Jacob Schranz, and Drew Dittmer.

Hannah Michal is from West Milmore and Katie Korecek is from Antioch.

When does a female ball player decide to play softball?

"I was in third grade," said Korecek. "I just wanted to try it for a year. I did OK. I tried it again, and I did fine. So, I kept on going."

She has kept on going to lead her team in runs scored, 39, and to be the second-best base stealer with 37.

"She's got a lot of speed," Rutz said.

She also has a .365 batting average, a .625 on-base percentage, and 17 runs batted in.

"By the end of the season, she was hitting everything in sight," said coach Rutz.

Korecek should have been batting that well. Her hitting instructor, Tim Nolan, of Pro-Cut in Lake Villa, had her working every day.

"She does her homework. Her homework is 100 swings a day," Nolan said. "She hits balls into a catch net. She's doing the fundamental work that it takes to be a baseball player."

"She knows what she is doing with the bat," he said. "Now she's a hitter. Instead of a swinger, she's a hitter. She goes where the ball goes."

To build her hitting skills, Nolan throws fastballs and curves to her. "She is seeing between 55 and 60 mile per hour pitches," he said. "I threw buckets of curve balls at her." "She's ready to hit curve balls and not just fastballs. That's why she's so successful."

Korecek senses her own improvement as she works out. "I play with my dad or my coach or I go over to Tim Nolan's at Pro-Cut."

"It's fun to do that stuff and then you get to use it in a game. It really shows you what you can do."

For her, there is more than hitting the ball to the game. Her Diamondbacks coach, Kurt Rutz, rotates her play at three positions.

"I like three the same: shortstop, third (base), and pitcher." Being at shortstop is fun for her because there are a lot of balls hit through there. Indeed, being at shortstop gave her one of her best memories of the summer.

"I made a double play, unassisted," she said. "I was at shortstop; I grounded it cleanly. I stepped on second base and threw to first base." End of inning: start of a good summer memory.

Korecek is also a strong academic student at St. Peter's School in Antioch. During the winter she plays volleyball.

"I play basketball at school," she said.

An interest in multiple sports seems to part of the female baseball player mind-set. Her teammate Hannah Michal also entered baseball from a multiplicity of interests.

In 1994 Hannah Michal was Little Miss Lake Villa, according to her mother, Gae Michal. In two years, she was a cheerleader in the Lake Villa Township Youth Timberwolves football program.

"The next year she played (football)," said Gae Michal.

Hannah Michal also plays floor hockey and softball.

Her brother, Zach, 15, was a key factor in her baseball skills. "My brother taught me how to play and it was fun. So, I just kept on going," she said. "He taught me to throw better."

For her, good throws are important. She plays centerfield and second base.

She is also a good A and B student at J. J. Pleviak School where she will enter the sixth grade in a few weeks. "My favorite subject is social studies. I like to learn about history and things that are going on in the world," she said.

Mothers Gae Michal and Judy Korecek are each comfortable with the reception and play opportunities for their daughters. A major factor has been the kind of coaching the mothers know their children receive.

"Every year it's been great," said Judy Korecek. "She's had wonderful coaches each year." That has had a lot to do with making Judy Korecek feel that her daughter is welcome in the league.

"They spent a lot of time with all the kids, encouraging them," Judy Korecek said.

Gae Michal said that it was the coach's receptivity to her daughter's playing and talent that made it a positive experience for her, as a mother. She likes to see her daughter doing all the laps and associated strength preparation just as all the other team members do. For her, it is a sign that her daughter is part of a team.

Dennis Kelly is on the Board of the Lake Villa Township Youth Baseball League. He believes that the presence of female players in the league is a natural opportunity for the game.

"All of the levels are open to boys and girls," he said. "Even the traveling teams are open to them."

"Katie was picked by her teammates on the Diamondbacks" to be on the traveling all-star team, according to Kelly. That is where she will play out her summer in baseball this year.

"Traveling. That is, without a doubt, very competitive," Kelly said. Parents and players realize that. They also realize that the Lake Villa teams play competitive baseball.

"We've been very successful at all age groups in the travel program," Kelly said.

The future for Katie Korecek in local area baseball may continue over the next few years.

"I'm going to be going into the pony league next year," Katie Korecek said.

Rutz said, "I would not be surprised if, when she reaches high school, she does compete for the boy's baseball team. She's competent and capable of playing at that level."

Dist. 34 expands drug education resources

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Drug education and drug use prevention programs are part of the District 34 school system. In addition, there are special programs to help students and parents with specific problems in their lives.

"In District 34, we do drug education starting in kindergarten," said Chris Newton. She is a District 34 resource person for students and faculty for drug prevention, education, and other student assistance.

Drug education and prevention programs for children in kindergarten through grade five have a strong no-use message, according to Newton.

"The D.A.R.E. program is present at the fifth grade level," she said. "The Antioch Police Department provides an officer for classroom instruction."

"We have Snowflake at the upper grades," she said. The Snowflake program is a one day opportunity for drug-free students to interact and support one another.

"That happens every year (in February)," she said.

During the Snowflake program, there are speakers, small group discussion of issues related to a drug-free life style, and social and fun activities.

"It's really a fun day," Newton said. "It's led by trained high school students with an adult facilitator in each group."

"The kids come away rejuvenated, stronger in the desire to stay healthy and in the desire to make good choices."

There is also red ribbon week.

"It's week-long classroom and school activities designed to reinforce the 'say no to drugs' message." This nationwide program occurs during the last week of October.

The district also offers programs and resources for parents and families.

"We do have support groups that are usually led by social workers in each of the (school) buildings," Newton said. Some of these programs include development of appropriate social skills, conflict resolution, grief issues, alcoholism issues for children of alcoholics, and other problems that may emerge during the school year.

"At this level, parent's permission is necessary," Newton said. Students can not otherwise be involved in these groups with a social worker.

One of these programs will be expanded district-wide next year. The school system will teach students about conflict resolution. This will be done with a comprehensive, district-wide approach.

"District 34 has also provided parent education classes," Newton said. These classes seek to improve communication between parent and child, to help parents develop effective discipline skills, and to help parents teach children about responsibility.

FNB-EO plans summer blood drive

First National Bank- Employee Owned will host a blood drive Saturday, Aug. 15 from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. "As the summer months continue, the need for blood donors increases," said Karen Kubin.

People who wish to set up an appointment, may call her at 847-838-2265. Otherwise, people may stop at the bank to donate. Donations are taken in the community room. The bank is located at 485 Lake Street at the sign with an Eagle's outstretched wings across their sign.

Cathy Milovanovic sends a belated Happy Birthday to Mr. Claude LeMere. "Happy fishing," she said.

Baseball hitting coach Tim Nolan, of Pro-Cut Training Center in Lake Villa, was at the Florida State University Baseball Camp last week. "It's really top-notch," he said. He said they have camps for kids to learn to play baseball.

"We do fundamental plays. We go over all the plays," he said. "They put in a Pro-Cut training station."

He heads to the University of Tennessee next, and then on to

OUR TOWN

Ken Patchen

Omaha, Nebraska to speak about baseball.

Three Antioch women did very well at recent Tae Kwon Do championships in Orlando, Florida. There were 4,700 black-belt competitors at the event.

"Three women from Antioch won metal," said instructor John Selber, of Health System Tae Kwon Do in Antioch.

Michelle Elliot, 17, and Caitlin May, 12, both won silver medals. Shannon Propeck, 13, took home the bronze medal.

"Tim Walker, 18, qualified to go to the Olympic Training Center in September in Colorado," Selber said. Walker will compete there to go to Australia at the pre-Olympic festival.

Those who went to Florida also included: Kevin Propeck, Theron May, Darrell Morgan, David Lols, John Selber, Nick Galich, and Nick Lanas.

Tyler Adams is turning his basketball interest and skills into some serious money. On the July 4 weekend, Adams competed in the First National Bank- Employee Owned 3-Point basketball contest. He did well enough in the contest to win more money than his father, who also regularly competes in the annual event.

Tyler Adams, 13, of Antioch Upper Grade School, has an interest in sports both traditional and new. "He is doing football this year," said mother Pam Adams. That starts next month with the Antioch Vikings Youth Football program.

"Basketball would be his second favorite sport," she said. "He plays that a lot here in (Williams) park."

"He's extremely into the skateboarding," she said of his current interest. "He practices every day."

Fair a winner for 4-H Sequoit 'warriors'

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

How much do people pay for a decorated cake at the Lake County Fair in Grayslake, Illinois?

Maybe.

The 70th annual version of the venerable farm institution started Tuesday, July 28 and ends Sunday, Aug. 2.

The Sequoit Warriors 4-H Club of Antioch will be making another appearance this year.

"They have a variety of projects they're involved in," said Karen Powell, club leader.

Her club members have entries for woodworking, aerospace, flower arranging, and visual arts. Projects are dropped off before the fair begins and winner's ribbons are displayed through the duration of the 6-day event.

"They all get involved in the visual arts aspects," Powell said. This may include sewing projects, art work, and woodworking. As long as it was done during the past year, the art is eligible.

Aerospace includes rockets. Members must build and launch it. Distance and accuracy count. Craftsmanship also counts.

"There are food groups," Powell said. These contests require interested members to make a recipe that is given to them, to bring it to the fair, and to await the judge's decision.

For other food events, however, the competition and judging is more direct.

"All of our members are involved in cake decorating," Powell said. The decorated cake was to be returned to the fair at 1 p.m. on Wednesday for judging. The cakes are then auctioned at 5 p.m. at the main stage.

"They encourage the member to walk the cake to the auction and hold it there," she said. It helps to market the cake.

Some cakes are so beautifully decorated that they look like they came right out of a professional bakery, according to Powell.

The successful bids for decorated cakes may range between $40 and $200, according to Powell. The money received at the auction of the cakes goes to the 4-H club member that decorated it.

The Sequoit Warriors also will help to sell water and soda at the 4-H booth at the demolition derby. Different clubs contribute their time on Wednesday night and Sunday.

"That benefits the main 4-H organization," Powell said.

Members of the Sequoit Warriors 4-H Club include Eric Powell, also a junior leader, Justin Weise, Vicky Powell, Michael Ryan, and Greg Lyons. Scott Rhodes, a junior leader, is also a member of the club. Shelly Rhodes is a junior leader.

The Lake County Fair is more than a 4-H experience, however.

This is the 70th year of the Lake County County Fair and it is being celebrated as "70 years of farming family fun."

The gates opened a day early at 1 p.m. on Tuesday, July 28. It will close on Sunday, Aug. 2 in the evening.

The live animal auction and sale of champions is Saturday, Aug. 1. Registration is at 1 p.m. and the auction starts at 2 p.m.

The fair features three pageant queen contests, all types and styles of animal displays, vegetable and food exhibits, commercial displays of products, and family entertainment.

Daily events with appeal for children include Charles Stron, a stiltwalker, Magic Dave, a magician, Perry's Exotic Petting Zoo, with camels, baby lions, tigers, and pony rides.

There are motocross races, demolition derbies, Dick Blondi, singers, truck and tractor pulls, a professional rodeo, and auctions of livestock and other foods.

Demonstrations are held of dairy cow milking. There is dairy goat show judging.

The Midway is back. There is entertainment on the main stage.

Meeting set for HOD landfill cleanup project

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

The U. S. Environmental Protection Agency will host a public meeting Tuesday, Aug. 11, at 7 p.m. in Village Hall to explain a plan they propose to use to guide the cleanup of the H.O.D. Landfill site.

The H.O.D. landfill site is located east of Anita Street north of Route 173.

The federal EPA has concluded that cleanup actions are needed at the landfill to protect the environment and the health of people.

"Vinyl Chloride, a cancer-causing chemical, has appeared in a monitoring well, nearby and down gradient (i.e. south) of the site, at levels beyond the federal drinking water standards established by the U.S. EPA," according to the summary report about alternatives considered for site improvement.

State and federal environmental agencies also believe that their containment improvement alternative will protect the health of people and the environment by treating or containing all significant threats on site. This is expected to reduce human health risks and hazards and to reduce remaining environmental hazards to acceptable levels.

The proposed plan for the cleanup, containment, is consistent with the standard remedy for municipal landfills.

The proposed solutions are described by the U.S. EPA as cost effective and permanent.

Spoken and written comments about the proposed plans will be accepted from community residents at the Aug. 11 meeting.

Written comments will also be accepted until Thursday, Aug. 20 by Gordie Blum, U.S. EPA Community Involvement Coordinator, at the U.S. EPA at 77 West Jackson Boulevard in Chicago, 60604-3590.

The final cleanup plan will be selected once public comment has been reviewed by the federal environmental protection agency.

H.O.D. Landfill operated about 24 acres as a landfill from 1963 to 1984. A second area of about 27 acres began operations in 1975. All operations ceased in 1984.

"H.O.D. Landfill accepted municipal wastes as well as solvents, metals, and hydraulic oils during the landfill operation," according to the summary statement.

"In 1989, a landfill cover, leachate wells, and landfill gas vents were installed in accordance with the applicable regulations in force at that time."

Although a number of potentially responsible parties for the contamination of the site had been identified by federal authorities, only Waste Management of Illinois, Inc. agreed to conduct a site investigation.

The summary document circulated prior to the meeting states, "The main threat to human health identified in the risk assessment is through the ingestion of vinyl chloride contaminated ground water."

The containment method for the site consists of collecting the water that leaches through the waste, collection of the gas created in the landfill, further controls of institutions, and use of deed restrictions.

The proposed cleanup recommendation consists of improvements to the landfill cap and collection of gases to be sure they are not inhaled or dissolve in groundwater.

Information about the superfund site and the proposed plan is available to the public at the Antioch Public Library District, 757 Main Street. The public meeting is based on the Remedial Investigation and Feasibility Study Reports which are at the library.

ACHS to increase student assistance resources

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Parents of Antioch Community High School students can find many school resources to help their children cope with the world.

And, more help is on the way. "What we can do here at school is be a support system for students and families," said Tim Noonan, ACHS guidance counselor.

He has a wide variety of services and programs at the school to which he can direct students. These can help them manage problems and school issues. In addition, some programs are available to school parents.

These resources soon may be of interest to residents of Lake Villa, Lindenhurst, and Antioch as parents learn more about local patterns of student drug and alcohol use.

Antioch Community High School sent parents the official results of the American Drug and Alcohol Survey in June. The survey was completed by students in March, 1998.

"There is a significant level of alcohol and other drug usage by the youth in our community," Noonan told the school board on June 4 when he presented the survey results.

At that time he said that education and intervention efforts at ACHS were not sufficient of themselves to reduce drug and alcohol use by students. The survey had revealed that most drug use occurs outside the school setting.

Noonan said that the school board has taken proactive and positive steps to help the school do what it can to help students and families.

At the present time, ACHS has five counselors who work with students. By fall, 1998 the school board will have hired a sixth counselor.

"We hope to reduce client load so we can work more in-depth with the students who are assigned," he said. Even with six counselors, that will give them each about 320 students to work with.

"I think the (school board) has been supportive of the counseling program," he said.

Noonan can describe many aspects of the existing program that the school has created. School counselors work with referral agencies, a resource library has been created, there is a Student Assistance Program, and there is active involvement with parent groups, such as the

A.L.L. Parent Network.

Community referral agencies for youth focus on a wide variety of issues. There is family counseling, substance abuse assessment and counseling, local 12-step programs, 24-hour assistance hotlines, 24-hour assistance agencies, support groups, and hospitals with treatment programs.

Noonan said that referrals can be made for students and families when the problems are beyond the scope of the school's counselors. However, he said that parents have to take the initiative to obtain help.

One resource the school can offer is a library of materials and books.

ACHS has a Student Assistance Program. "The program basically has three major components," he said. There is prevention education, a supportive counseling system, and intervention.

The prevention education work is positive and proactive. "We work with students who have chosen to be free of drugs and alcohol."

There are education programs to which everyone is invited. Some programs teach parenting skills for grade school and high school age children. A date-rape seminar was offered. There have been eating disorder, study skills, and gang awareness sessions for students. The counselors have hosted sessions for parents whose child is leaving for college.

The S.A.P. provides a support system for the students. Staff can meet with students about a variety of issues on a weekly basis to help them manage change and growth.

S.A.P. intervention programs with students and parents can help them to seek outside assistance, maybe because of a substance abuse problem. An assessment will be prepared and students can follow the recommendations.

"We strongly encourage the family and child to participate in it," he said.

Noonan offers other ideas for parents to consider to help them and their children.

Parents can "work at increasing their own level of awareness," he said. Parents can learn what is happening with children, drugs, and alcohol. Parents should know where their children are and who their friends are. Parents can learn about the alcohol use practices in homes where their children spend time.

Noonan encourages parents not to be afraid to talk to their children about substance abuse.

He said that parents should "be strong in their expectation that they will not be using illegal substances or alcohol or any drug." Parents can not assume that their children are not using drugs or alcohol.

"It can't all be the kid next door," he said.

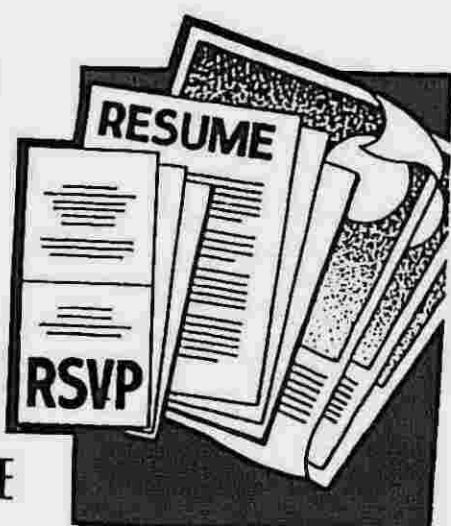

The school counseling program can be reached at 847-395-1421, extension 254.

Community involvement: I'm on the Beautification Committee, and we help put up flowers around the memorial and the Village Buildings. We also go out, plant, and maintain the flower barrels. We evaluate them three times a year and at the end of the year we let the merchants know who has done the best during the year. We help deliver the flowers to the merchants.

I graduated from: Antioch Community High School, 1949.

My family consists of: Three daughters and three sons: Laurie Stahl, Cheryl Poulos, Angela Poulos, Ted Poulos, Thomas Allen, and Edward Robert. They were alternating boys and girls. Laurie was the oldest. Also, my wife Marjorie. And, four grandchildren: Heather, Nicholas, Danielle, and Eric.

My pets are: We have a Cocker spaniel named Taylor.

What I like best about Antioch: I grew up here liking a small town. At the time I was a kid, you knew just about everybody in town. The town has grown slowly, but that is the way most people liked it. I just enjoy being from a small town and between Chicago and Milwaukee.

What I like best about my job: I liked working there because I took care of the signs on the road. I got to go from one end of the county to the next. We moved around and covered the whole county. Being outside. I've been gone five years and the roads have changed a lot in five years. The traffic now is very much greater.

The secret to my success is: When I married my wife and had my family. I have a wonderful family.

I relax by: I've been involved with Little League with my grandson. I like to relax by watching athletics- my kids playing softball, high school athletics- football, basketball, and baseball. I do enjoy politics. I like to watch the talk shows.

My perfect day in Antioch would be: Going downtown on different celebration days, the different activities in town and meeting people.

Favorite movie is: "Gone with the Wind," "Duel in the Sun," and "Song of Bernadette." Jennifer Jones is probably my favorite actress. Paul Newman and Robert Redford are two good actors too.

Favorite restaurant: Thompson's Tavern back in the '50s and early '60s.

Favorite music: I like just about any kind of music. My aunts had Dick Jergens and Glenn Miller. I like semi-classical. I like just about every kind of music except heavy metal.

Favorite band or musician: One of my favorite bands was Glenn Miller, Stan Kenton. I liked Frank Sinatra.

My life's motto is: "Practice is the game."

If I won the lottery, I would: I'd probably do what I wanted with my wife, take a vacation, buy her what she wanted, and split up the rest with our kids. I would give some to a charity like Mooseheart.

I want to be remembered as: A person who spent all his life in Antioch and liked the community.

People who knew me in high school would say: I've done a lot better than I thought I probably would because of my family, which is what I count.

My pet peeve is: To see some liberal politician get up and start thinking he knows better than I do, for myself or for society, and that he can do better with a government solution.

Most interesting person I ever met was: My father had a very interesting life and stories of him coming over here from the time he was 16 and unable to speak English. He was a very talented person. He was a great candy maker and had a lot of talent for doing that.

If I could meet anyone, I would meet: I'd probably like to meet Newt Gingrich or Rush Limbaugh.

People would be most surprised to know this about me: A lot of people I grew up with would probably be surprised that I like politics so much.

If I had a plane ticket to anywhere, I would go to: I might want to go to the old country, Greece, to see where my Dad grew up. My wife would love to go to Hawaii. I'd also like to go to places like Switzerland, Austria, and the Alps.

Celebrant Singers present free community concert

Celebrant Singers will present a free concert at Antioch Evangelical Free Church on Friday, July 31 at 7:30 p.m. The entire community is invited to attend.

Celebrant Singers is an internationally-known Christian music ministry featuring 10 singers and a 12-piece orchestra. They present contemporary Christian music, praise and worship, personal testimony, and ministry.

"The Celebrant Singers is not just another music group," said founder Jon Stemkoski. "Our objective is to share the love of Christ."

"It's a powerful ministry, and it will touch your heart. Bring your family and friends. It's an experience you won't soon forget," Stemkoski said.

Celebrant Singers seek to inspire and bless as they share the gospel through musical celebration.

The concert is free of charge, but a free-will offering will be taken.

During the past 20 years, Celebrant Singers have traveled in all 50 contiguous states, throughout Canada, and in more than 70 nations. More than 5 million people have heard them in live concerts and on broadcast media. During 1998, seven groups of celebrant Singers are expected to present a Christian gospel in over 1,400 concerts in more than 20 nations, six Canadian provinces, and 50 states.

In 1991, Nathan Smith, director of music at Antioch Evangelical Free Church, traveled with a group of Celebrant Singers.

"Those three months of ministry made a profound impact on my spiritual walk," he said. "An evening with the Celebrants is an encounter of music and worship that will draw you closer to the Lord and could very well change your life."

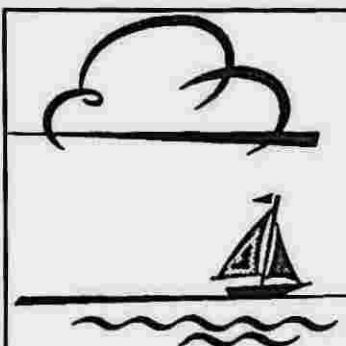

Celebrant Singers recently undertook their 15th tour of India. Other international outreach has included Paraguay, Bolivia, and Argentina. They also toured Egypt, Jordan, Cyprus, Israel, Armenia, and the United Arab Emirates for three months. Celebrant Singers were the first to hold public religious meetings in Cuba in more than 30 years.

Antioch Evangelical Free

Church is located at 750 Highview Drive in Antioch, approximately one block north of Route 173 on Tiffany Road.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Thanks for hard work

Dear Editor:

On behalf of the Board of Education as well as the students, parents, and staff of Antioch C.C. Elementary School District 34, we would like to offer our sincere gratitude for all of the hard work put forth by the District 34 Educational Foundation Trustees for their recent golf outing last June 17th.

The outing ran "as smooth as silk" which almost always certainly means that the prework and preparation prior to the event was enormous and expertly executed. Within months, the funds raised by the foundation will be benefiting all of the children in our school district.

It is an inspiration to watch these trustees working with such dedication to the quality of education for our students and our community. We thank them sincerely.

BASEBALL IS POSSIBLE EVEN WITH A "LESS THAN PERFECT" BACK

Former baseball commissioner Bart Giamatti once said, "Baseball breaks your heart." He wasn't referring to the losing team or a bad season but to the mythic quality of the game. There is indeed a magic about this sport that just isn't to be found in any other.

If you are warming the bench because of a bad back, it may be time to step up to the plate. Baseball, especially softball, can be played safely by almost anyone, even those with sensitive spines, because the pace of the game is slow, in brief spurts, thus minimizing trauma.

Batting involves a hearty twist of the lower back, but you should be able to prevent any injury if you remember to bat with a straight line, knees bent, and pelvis tilted.

Even pitching isn't out of the question. There are a number of techniques that can spare your back, such as avoiding overreaching. Ask your chiropractor for advice, and then step out onto your "field of dreams."

If maintaining your health and reducing stress is important to you, call Round Lake Beach Chiropractic at 847-740-2800 to make an initial, no obligation consultation with Dr. Scott G. Reiser. Our clinic is located at 314 Rollins Road, Round Lake Beach (Eagle Creek Plaza - corner of Cedar Lake and Rollins Roads.)

It'll get here before you know it

Today's topic is birthdays. As we grow older our attitudes towards birthdays definitely tip the scales from "can't wait until it gets here" to "geesh I think there is something significant about this day, but I can't remember what."

As children we revel in the fact that we celebrate our advancing age once a year on our special day. As adults we wake up and hope the day passes as quickly as possible, without too much Pomp and Circumstance. As children we can't wait to no longer have to say we are 7 and three-quarters—8 years is a much nicer number. As adults we average our age quite differently, yes we are over 30 years, but no, we are not yet 40 years.

One has to wonder at what point in one's life that birthday's no longer hold the oomph-pa they did in our younger years. During the teen years there is the whole issue with reaching 16 years and securing your independence with a driver's license. Of course, that independence hinges on the small matter of getting the use of the family car to exhibit that freedom, or the finances for your own set of wheels—not always such an easy feat.

After the big "21," when you are of legal age to do anything you want, birthday's tend to fizzle in their anticipation and we forget what all the hoop-la was about anyway. Once you have reached that so long desired for age, the years seem to add up much more quickly and you have a tendency to wish things would slow down just a bit. Remember as kids we used to think

JINGLE FROM PRINGLE

Lynn Pringle

30 years was old and 40 years was, well, consider yourself shelved and antiqued?

Now that we are there—heck, 50 years doesn't look so bad anymore. As we get on up in our golden years, so named because of the gold crowns on our teeth, the gold rimmed glasses framing our eyes and the metal joints replacing our hips and knees, we thrive on our years.

Every chance we get we reassure that salesperson, waitress, or hotel clerk that, yes, we are entitled to our senior citizen discount and proud of it. I have often thought how unfair it is that senior's get these discounts, they are the ones with all the money. It's us stay-at-home moms with four kids who need the discounts. So, someplace between childhood and adulthood the enthusiasm for birthdays turns to apprehension. Even though as children we love to advertise our distinct day with balloons on the mail box, as adults we pray that the morning of our day the front lawn isn't adorned with those pink flamingos or a flashing marquee.

And so goes another "Jingle from Pringle."

Readers with information for "Jingle from Pringle" should call Lynn Pringle at 395-6364.

Mundelein baseball tops in summer play

The Mundelein Mustangs had a good 1998 season, better than many expected. But this summer exceeded nearly all expectations. Mundelein beat Antioch for the summer regional title, an honor that everyone expected would be Libertyville's.

The Mustangs pounded the Sequoits 12-5 to take the Stevenson Regional crown and earned a spot in the IBCA state playoffs. Mundelein did it with hitting (13 hits) and defense, as the Mustangs trailed 2-0 early, but Ryan Keller forced the Antioch bats into ground-outs and pop-flies.

Congratulations Mundelein!

Elizabeth Wieggers, a 1998 honors graduate of Warren Township High School, has signed a letter to play collegiate volleyball at Olivet Nazarene University in Kankakee, Ill.

Wieggers played middle hitter for Warren during her junior and senior years after transferring from downstate Decatur's Douglas MacArthur High School.

During her two years at Warren, Wieggers was a two-time NSC Academic All-Conference honoree. As one of 1997's senior tri-captains, she helped guide the team to a 36-3 record and reach the supersectionals.

Erin Bethke, 15, of Grayslake, was chosen from among hundreds of nationwide entries to participate in a GirlSports National Sports Event, which takes place at Converse College, S. Car., July 25-Aug. 1.

Bethke and the other young athletes will compete in soccer, basketball, softball, tennis, golf, volleyball and swimming for a chance to make the National Girl Scout All-Star Team.

OMNI Youth Services held its 8th Annual Golf Classic at Ivanhoe Country Club on Monday, June 29. After taking a few tips from the pros, over 40 foursomes teed off. Later that day, noted Golf Channel commentator Mark Lye joined PGA tour pro Peter Jordan and helped golfers with their swing and answered questions. The event is expected to have raised $70,000. For more information, call OMNI Youth Services at 537-7357.

The Northern Illinois Council on Alcoholism and Substance Abuse (NICASA) recently held its ninth annual Charity Golf Invitational at Midlane Country Club in Wadsworth and raised $88,131.

The amount was the most successful fund-raiser in the drug abuse agency's 32-year history. The event grossed $118,563, with expenses of $28,432 for a net income of $88,131.

The event included a day of golf, an evening banquet, a drawing for airline tickets, and silent and live auctions. Sports memorabilia that drew considerable funds included a Chicago Bulls pennant that brought in $3,000, a Michael Jordan autographed basketball which brought $1,000, and a football signed by Brett Favre took in $400.

Baseball is labor of love for area umpires

By STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

Ron Naden sees himself as part teacher, part arbitrator each time he dons the mask and takes his place behind home plate.

"The players tend to emulate the pros. In basketball, it is taking the extra step to the hoop. In baseball, it is balking because they see the pros get away with it. Another thing is infielders having to touch the bag on a double play. Sometimes, we have to re-teach that. Many fans and even fans of losing teams appreciate this," said Naden.

A Naden-called baseball game has that unmistakable call of "strike" or "baaall."

"I wanted to umpire in the majors years ago, but I started too late. I had gone through Harry Wendelstedt's umpiring school and was No. 31 out of 212," said Naden.

But that was in 1978, long before the present-day expansion in the majors. Politics also plays a role as who gets coveted high minor league assignments which lead to major league chances.

Naden played his high school baseball in Waukegan. An injury incurred in service in the Vietnam War eliminated those major league dreams, but he wished to stay active.

"I used to work for a linen company and had to run like crazy to get to games. But now I am retired and am of at 1 p.m., and can make any game," said Naden.

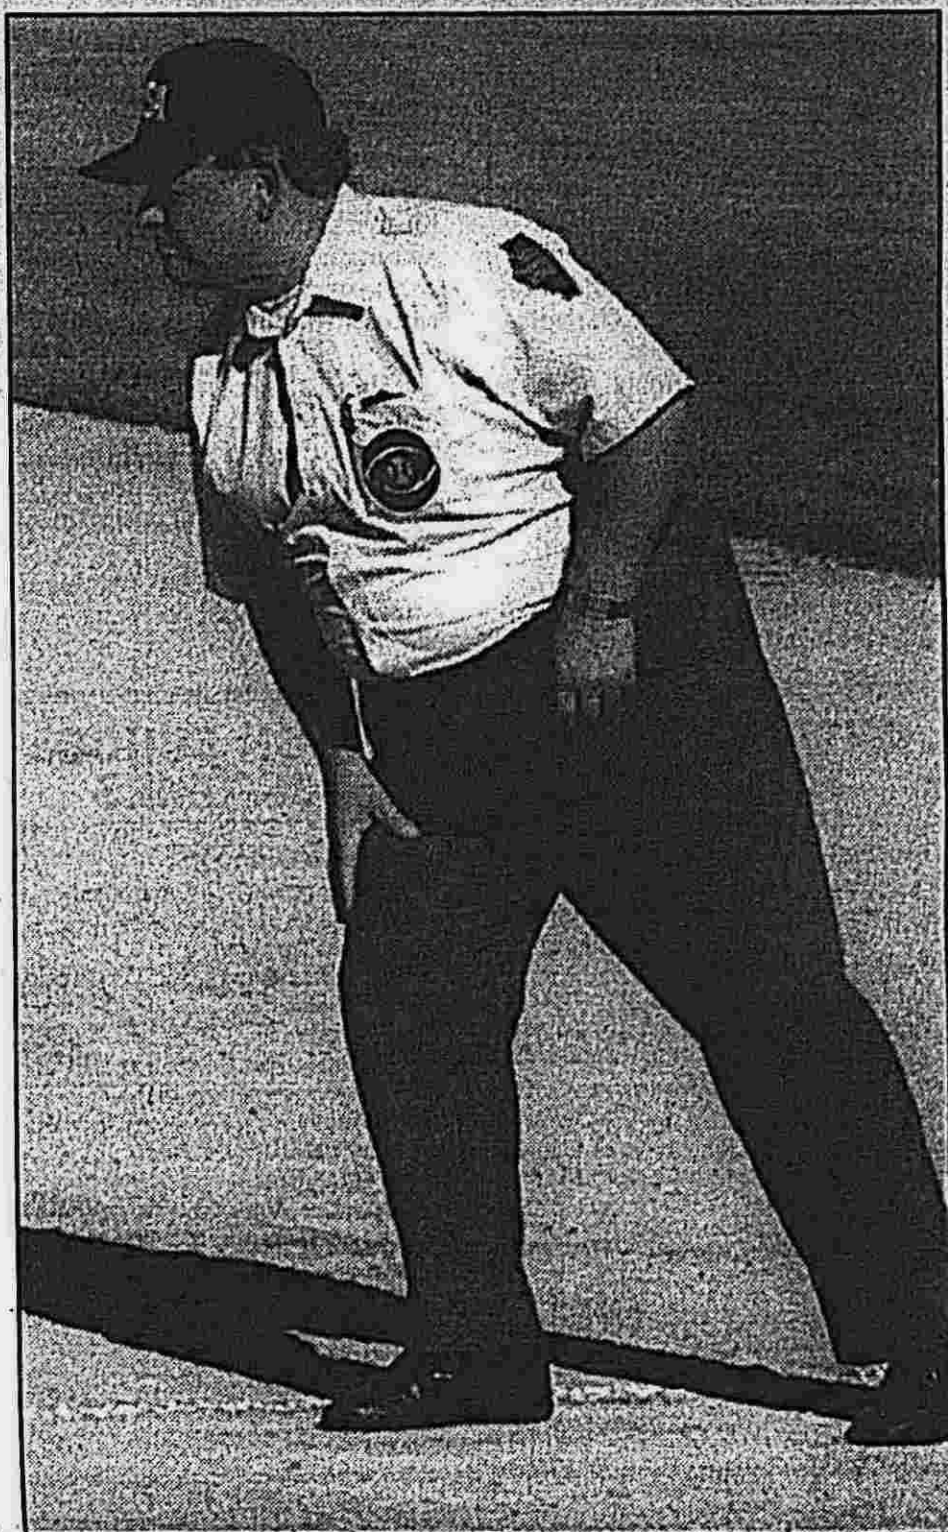

He receives his work schedule for the week each Sunday from Dave Lang, who assigns umpires for both American Legion and high school summer games.

He has long-standing relationships which such coaches as Libertyville's Jim Panther, College of Lake County's Gene Hanson and Mike Mallory of Waukegan, his prep coach. He saw Dar Townsend of Warren and Todd Parola of Mundelein as players and now as head coaches.

He considers recently retired Brett Butler of Los Angeles Dodgers, Scott Stahoviak of Minnesota, Dan Wilson of Seattle, Tim Lincecum of the Cubs AAA team who earlier played for the Brewers, Joe Hall, a catcher who was in the Yankees system, and Brian Trestler, who went on to the Dodgers' organization as top area baseball products.

Gurnee Legion baseball goes down swinging

By STEVE PETERSON

Karl Richter hit a pitch long and hard for old time sake.

Responding to an encouraging word from coach Rick Hill, Richter deposited the first pitch he saw over the left-field fence at Barrington.

It gave the Gurnee American Legion Post 771 team some self-respect following a 20-4 loss to the eventual champions. A 17-14 loss to Libertyville put the 12-member Gurnee squad in a bad spot Saturday afternoon.

"I only had seven at-bats all Legion season. I was just trying to hit it hard. I was going for a homer. I had come close a couple of times," said Richter.

Richter, who starred for Antioch's runner-up North Suburban Conference team, is heading to Illinois Benedictine College.

"It was a long day. Our 12 guys battled hard. They did everything we asked. We did not expect to give up that many runs," said Hill.

Gurnee center fielder Lance Johnson dismissed a large deficit and made the defensive catch of the tournament. He robbed Brady Tinkham of a homer by leaping and catching the ball over the fence and bringing it back in play. The effort earned the respect of all present, including the Broncos' faithful.

"It was a great play. He made some outstanding plays. He has always been a solid defensive player and today he showed why," said Hill.

"It is hard to beat a team three times. No one ever gave up. The season was a lot of fun," said Brett Hill, Gurnee catcher.

He is heading to Trinity College in Deerfield to play football and baseball.

Barrington broke the game open with a nine-run second inning in which 15 batters went to the plate.

In the morning round, Gurnee and Libertyville clashed in a back-and-forth struggle.

Gurnee (15-15 final), trailing early, bounced back for its last hurrah. A homer by Brian Horner in the eighth inning capped off a four-RBI day for him. Hanson's RBI double concluded a ninth inning rally, which came up short.

Mustangs win regional title

Mundelein ousts Antioch in summer baseball playoffs

By STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

In a 12-run, 13-hit baseball game, one may not expect defense to play a key role.

But it did as Mundelein made the key plays when it had to and let the offense get on track in its first summer league regional championship. Antioch led early 2-0, but Mundelein outscored the Sequoits 12-3 for the 12-5 win, the Stevenson regional crown and a bid to the IBCA state summer playoffs.

"He kept the ball down at the knees. There is a good chance to throw people out because of our defense," said MHS coach Todd Parola of pitcher Ryan Keller.

Keller dismissed a shaky first inning and scattered seven hits to get the win for the Mustangs.

Antioch lead-off man Ray George tripled to right field and scored as Pat Straub singled in the first inning. After an error, Keller settled down and got the final two outs.

A double steal lead directly to the second Antioch run. Ryan Clutts reached base on an error, stole second and George walked. The two then pulled off the double steal, with George taking another base as well for a 2-0 lead.

Mundelein's Kyle Zaleski came through with a clutch diving catch which robbed Antioch of a hit and possibly a run. The situation was tie game, with two runners on base in the third inning. The runners had just moved up a base on a balk before Zaleski dove and caught Brandon Clutts' fly-out.

"Kyle's catch was huge. If he missed that, for a run, it changes the whole game," said Parola.

"I just dove for it," said Zaleski of his catch.

He said he did not think about the error he had made earlier. The senior also played third and pitches for the Mustangs.

Keller and the rest of the Mustang pitching staff know they have some talented defenders.

"I kept throwing and let them hit the ball. I know we have a great defense behind me. They will swing and miss or hit a ground ball. This win is very important. I worked all summer, coming to the park at 3 p.m. each day," said Keller.

At the next Mundelein at-bat, Zaleski doubled home Josh Lieberman for the go-ahead run. Juan Huartido, who turned in a gem of a catch at third base on a line drive, walked for a RBI and Brett Bartell, who was 3-3, doubled-in two more runs.

"This means a lot. Last year we had 23 wins (spring) and we are trying to get 20 next year, too," said Zaleski, a senior.

Mundelein tied ACHS at 2-2 in the second. The Mustangs then scored six runs in the third inning as they batted around.

Keith Zurckes' two-run homer highlighted a four-run sixth which led to cheers of "Go Big Red" and plans for a dousing of Parola with a bucket of water.

game. Baseball is my sport. It is the best in the world," said Naden.

Naden, age 54, has no plans to retire anytime soon.

"I would like to do it as long as it is fun. I think I will do it for another 10 years," said Naden.

He would like to see younger umpires get interested, and clinics are offered occasionally. The optimum age is the early 20s.

He said he does not let hecklers bother him.

"I call it like I see it at the time. Even if someone has a photograph, it is how I saw it at the time. If you acknowledge hecklers, it can only get worse," said Naden.

Jerry Niemo began his umpiring career in 1983.

"A friend's son was playing and I was watching the game. My friend suggested I get involved by umpiring, so I took the test. My first year was 1983," said Niemo.

Niemo has watched four out of his five boys in sports. Norm was an outstanding catcher for Wauconda and College of Lake County, who also dabbled a bit in umpiring.

He said he gets along well with many coaches. Important factors to him are consistency and hustle to make the call. He is so objective, he has called his sons out on strikes more than once.

"I think I will keep doing this as long as my legs hold up," said Niemo.

Lake Villa takes 2nd in Wheaton tourney

Coach Tom Meyers got what he wanted, a rematch with Wheaton in a tournament championship game. Wheaton took the Lake Villa Township Spring Tournament with the Lightning coming in second. This time, it was Wheaton's own tournament and Coach Meyers had Lake Villa (34-16-1) positioned to return the favor.

Asked if he would have taken his chances as the home team and a tied game at the end of 7 innings, Meyers would have probably said "yes." Especially if he knew that the last three runs in the bottom of 7th innings scored against Wheaton's best pitcher thanks mostly to Chad Stroup's controversial bases loaded double which brought the Lightning within a run at 7-6. No instant replay, but the ball either cleared the fence or went under it. The first scenario ends the game, the second set Lake Villa up for a Matt Lukemeyer sac fly which tied it up and put the game into extra innings. With the momentum completely shifted to Lake Villa after the 2-run 6th and 3-run 7th, Meyers rolled the dice in the 8th after Nick Blocker led with a single and was awarded 2nd base on interference. He elected to swing away for the game winner, and two fly balls later (the second turned into an inning ending double-play) the Lightning's last threat was over. The Warrior's scored twice in the top of the 11th and held on to take home the championship trophy.

Scott Wold was the pitching star with his 6 innings, 2 runs allowed on only 4 hits along with 5 strikeouts. Offensively, Sean Walker accounted for 3 of the 9 Lightning hits, including a double, two runs and an RBI. Ryan Meyers drove in the two runs in the 6th to start the Lake Villa comeback while making a number of nice, late-inning plays at short. Brian Blanas (double) and Brad Hoogerhyde also chipped in hits.

In the semi-final, Walker pitched a sparkling game against DuPage County with an 8 strikeout, no walk performance. The 1 hit shutout wasn't his only contribution to the win as he launched a 2-run 1st innings homer and added a 7th inning single to his game. Brian Blanas also had 2 hits including a double, run scored, RBI and stolen base. Matt Lukemeyer scored twice and had a hit while Chad Stroup added a 3rd inning single.

Lake Villa won the two previous games to qualify for the final round with dramatic 7th inning victories against Bartlett, 7-6 and Wasco, 3-2. Against Bartlett, the Lightning erased a 5-0 deficit and eventually won the game in the bottom of the 7th as they scored two runs on a Bartlett error and a suicide squeeze bunt by Ryan Myers. Nick Blocker entered the game in the 2nd inning with no outs with the Bandits already leading by five. He proceeded to strike out the next 8 batters and finished with 13K's over 6 innings allowing only one unearned run on 2 singles and just 2 walks. Many contributors on offense included Matt Lukemeyer (2 hits, run), Brad Hoogerhyde (hit, 2 RBI's) Myers with 6th and 7th inning RBI's, Kyle Robinson (hit, run, RBI) Scott Wold (hit, run), Blocker (single) and Matt Poleck (single).

Against Wasco, Scott Wold had two hits and two runs on the day capped off by a dramatic, bottom of the 7th solo home run for the game winner allowing Lake Villa to come from behind for the second time that day and make the semi-finals. Ryan Myers went the distance allowing only 2 runs for the win.

The Lake Villa Lightning have qualified for the Pony "A" AABC State Tournament being held in Winthrop Harbor. After the state tournament they travel to St. Louis for a 32-team national invitational tournament Aug. 1 to 7.

Antioch Indians slip by McHenry Pony A 18-15

The Antioch Indians 13-year-old Traveling Baseball Team slipped by McHenry Pony A in their opening game of the Sandy Koufax State Tournament, which was held in Winthrop Harbor. McHenry's offense exploded to take a 6-run lead in the half of the first inning, but Antioch's Joe Finkelberg countered with a two run homer in the Antioch half of the first and another two run homer in the second inning.

The team's manager Jim Eggers explains, it was hot, muddy, drizzling wet with overcast and we were down by 6." "Then Finkelberg hit the two dingers and the sun came out." "I think that let everyone know we were there to play baseball." "What impressed me more was when he took an outside pitch to right field in the 3rd inning." "A single that produced the same results—2 runs. That's maturity and discipline at the plate."

Finkelberg was a triple away from hitting for the cycle with 6 RBI's. Steve George stole some thunder with 4 RBI's, two hits and a double. Dan Mahar doubled twice himself and pitched a smart ball game. Eric Godin's double and Nick Conwell's two base hits were huge. "They kept our rallies alive," said Coach Eggers. "Anthony Gorzelnik, the team's lead off hitter, ignited the Tribe by reaching base 4 out of 6 times at bat. Rick Ross, Jason Kaminsky, Frank Vanderwall and Curtis Theel came up big defensively for the Indians.

Lake Villa falls
in final series 2-1

Avon Township Youth Baseball hosted the Illinois AABC Pee Wee Re-see State championship tournament. This was for age groups from 11 to 12 that play in the American Amateur Baseball Congress program. The following teams represented Mikes Memorial Traveling League in this tournament. ATYB, Grayslake, Winthrop Harbor, Lake Villa and Lake Zurich. These teams played exceptional baseball, there was great fielding, pitching and plenty of homeruns.

Lake Villa and Lake Zurich teams made it to the championship series. In the three game series, Lake Villa won the first game, but Lake Zurich won the last two games. All three games were close and exciting with Lake Zurich advancing to Regionals in Rockford.

Kirk Players summer workshop teaches children to express themselves

You walk into a room and watch as a grown man leads a group of children in an imaginary orchestra to Jerry Lee Lewis' song "Great Balls of Fire."

You're not in a time warp.
It's still 1998.

Jon Matousek and the children are enrolled in the Kirk Players Free Summer Theatre Workshop for children.

"It's not soccer or baseball, but we feel it is just as meaningful," said Matousek, one of 10 volunteers working with children, ages 6-13 years, for seven weeks through Aug. 3, teaching them the joy of theater and how it relates to everyday life.

That includes how to project your voice and speak in front of a class or group of people, said Asha Conta, 13, one of 110 children enrolled in this year's program.

Elizabeth Labellarte, 11, joined this year for probably the same reason everyone else has the past 28 years. "I heard it was really fun from my best friend," she said. That friend is Jillian Remeikis, 10, a three-year "veteran" of the children's workshop, who said she joined because she likes to act. Colleen Murphy, 11, said she joined this year after hearing about the program following a Kirk Players production.

Not everyone who starts attending the workshops is keen on being an actor. In fact, some really dislike being there, at least at first. Those children usually end up being the most enthusiastic, said Paddy Lynn, director of the children's workshop the past 10 years.

"I don't think kids realize they are learning theater," said Paula Marsh, another workshop volunteer, "trying to be an actor."

Marsh is the daughter, and Lynn is the daughter-in-law, of John W. Lynn, founder of the Kirk Players, a Mundelein-based community theater group formed 35 years ago, which started offering free summer workshops to children 28 years ago.

The idea started during the counter-culture days of 1970, when teenagers were more apt to get in-involved in any non-organized events, especially by their "elders."

"If you go back 28 years, we were in a pretty heavy drug situation with our teenagers," said John W. Lynn, Kirk Players founder.

Their common statement—which may not have changed so much—was there was nothing to do, something Lynn did not believe then, and does not believe now.

"What they really meant was they did not have anything they wanted to do," he said.

Since its beginning, Lynn has had to turn people away, as he tries to keep the children's workshop to a limit of 100 children, sometimes broken to accommodate siblings, such as this year. "We have people who try to sign up for next year already," John Lynn said.

An adult workshop was started a couple years after the children's workshop, and has continued to be a success.

This year there are 40 thespians—or would-be actors—ages 14 years and above, learning acting techniques by performing two or three play scenes during the seven-week schedule.

"It is not a lecture," Lynn said.

"It is a workshop.

"We give them an opportunity to grow from whatever plateau they are at," he said.

"It is basically a scenes workshop," Lynn said, with the students split up into groups which act as individual theater companies, complete with actors and a director.

After the scenes are presented, everyone else serves as critics, reviewing what they liked about the production, and why they liked it, or otherwise, Lynn said.

One weakness among the adult workshop is the lack of men involved, which leaves Lynn to find scenes with mostly women's roles.

The children's workshop is held for one hour, before the adult workshop, which lasts two hours. Children attend age level classes, where they generally learn the same things as the adults, but at a more basic level.

"The main goal is mainly to introduce them to the theater," Lynn said. Children already involved in theater expand what they know, working on improvisation and imagination techniques, he said.

Several instructors have experience as children involved in the workshops. Marsh is among them. "I was actually in it when I was a child myself in the seventh and eighth grades," she said.

Other instructors who were workshop members are Veronica Lynn, Paddy Lynn's daughter, who will be 17 years old later this year, and Kirsten Umbdenstock, who will be a college freshman this fall.

"They worked their ways up the ranks, working as assistants," Marsh said. "This year we gave them their own class."

Megan Gunther, 16, has been an assistant to Matousek the past two years. She is involved with the drama club at Mundelein High School, where most of the workshop classes are held, except when a conflict occurs, when St. Andrews Church of Mundelein serves as an alternate location.

Gunther said she gained experience as an instructor by being in the workshop classes herself. She has been a Kirk Players member for three years. Matousek has been a member for eight years, and enjoys working with the children, teaching them how to exaggerate and express themselves, in a fun way.

"We feel strongly that theater is something that can be learned and enjoyed at the earliest age," Matousek said. "This is part of the contract with the community."

HOROSCOPE

Aries - March 21/April 20

Keep your temper in check early in the week, Aries. An acquaintance has some harsh words to say; unfortunately, you're on the receiving end of them. Try not to get upset, because he or she really isn't angry with you. That special someone tells you an interesting story. Remember that old saying — don't believe everything that you hear.

Taurus - April 21/May 21

Stand your ground when it comes to an important decision. Don't let people who aren't familiar with the situation tell you what to do. An old friend needs some romantic advice. Help him or her, but try to be honest. He or she needs to hear the truth. Scorpio plays a key role on Thursday.

Gemini - May 22/June 21

You have a lot going on this week, Gemini, so don't get distracted. Several important people are counting on you to get things done. Don't disappoint them. A loved one needs to talk to you. Even though you're busy, make time to see him or her. Your efforts will be appreciated.

Cancer - June 22/July 22

A co-worker reveals an interesting piece of information to you. Keep it to yourself; this shouldn't be passed along the grapevine. You run into an old friend late in the week. Make plans to see him or her again; it's sure to be worth it. This could be the beginning of a romantic relationship.

Leo - July 23/August 23

Don't hold a grudge against a close friend. He or she never meant to cause you any trouble. The sooner you realize that, the sooner your life will be back to normal. A loved one stops by unexpectedly. Don't take it for granted. He or she has something important to say. Listen carefully.

Virgo - Aug 24/Sept 22

An unexpected delivery lifts your spirits during the middle of the week. It's something that you've been wanting for a long time. A friend invites you out this weekend. If you say no, you'll be passing up the perfect opportunity to meet an intriguing person. Sagittarius plays a key role.

Libra - Sept 23/Oct 23

Don't let an argument between friends get you upset. Do what you can to help them reconcile, but don't be disappointed if your efforts aren't successful. They need to work this out themselves. An acquaintance asks you out on a date. Say yes. Even though you've never thought about it before, there is a future with him or her.

Scorpio - Oct 24/Nov 22

You get caught in a difficult situation early in the week, Scorpio. Don't try to lie about it; telling the truth is the only way to rectify the situation quickly. The person whom you've been dating wants to intensify the relationship. Think about what you really want before responding.

Sagittarius - Nov 23/Dec 21

A business venture has you on pins and needles this week. Don't push the situation; you've done all that you can at this point. Now, you just have to wait. An old flame re-enters your life. Don't just pick up where you left off. A lot has happened since you've been apart. Ask questions before getting involved again.

Capricorn - Dec 22/Jan 20

Things go well for you this week, Capricorn. You make significant progress on the projects that you've been working on, and your romantic life heats up. However, don't get carried away. Keep your wits about you, and be observant. A close friend has some good news. Celebrate with him or her.

Aquarius - Jan 21/Feb 18

Don't overanalyze a business situation that arises on Tuesday. It has nothing to do with you, so don't worry about it. A relative has some interesting news about a family friend. Even though you may want to share it, don't! It's not your place to tell anyone. Leo plays an important role.

Pisces - Feb 19/March 20

Don't let a good thing pass you by, Pisces. Take a chance when it comes to finances, because you may not have this opportunity again. That special someone has an important question to ask you. Be honest.

Lake County Fair turns ripe old age of 70, runs July 28-Aug. 2

With 69 years of fairs coming and going through Lake County, the people behind the scenes of the Lake County Fair decided to make a few changes.

"We are celebrating our 70th anniversary this year," said Mary Gunia, spokesperson for the Lake County Fair. "In honor of the celebration, we made a few changes."

In the past, the fair came and went in five days flat. Not this year, however, as Gunia and the Lake County Fair Association slated an extra day, giving people six days full of festivities to give the people of Lake County more of what they want, as the fair opens on July 28 and running through Aug. 2.

"We have a few first-time events that will also take place," Gunia said. "Including the first ever pick-up truck demolition derby."

According to Gunia, the event will be held on July 28 at 7 p.m. This first-time event pits pick-up truck vs. pick-up truck, just like in the normal demolition derby.

"We surveyed the crowd last year during the demolition derby, and the crowd responded that this is what they would want to see," Gunia concluded. "We aim to please."

For drivers, entry fees for any of the demolition derby's is $20, and all registration times are at 10 a.m. the day of the race.

Each competition will have qualifying heats and a final competition. The winner of each heat will win an award, while the grand prize winner will receive $300.

Other events on the track include a "regular" demolition derby, where a car is pitted against a car, a motocross race and a "figure eight" race, where cars race around a figure eight track.

Other new, exciting things for the fair this year include a night when kids can come out to meet and greet their favorite motocross stars and the special "municipality" cook-off, where the different village governments in Lake County are cooking their favorite dishes in competition against one another.

And as always, the mainstay events will be happening during the week, including the Miss Lake County Pageants, the kids petting zoo, the kids agriculture center, the Lake County goat milking competition, hundreds of rides and games, food and refreshments, craft shows and more.

The Lake County Fair promises something for everyone, so come out and help celebrate the 70th anniversary of the Lake County Fair.

Admission for adults is $5, while children under 12 are free and admission for senior citizens 65 and over is $3.

Times for the fair are: 1-10 p.m. on July 28, noon to midnight between July 29 until Aug. 1 and noon to 10 p.m. on Sunday, Aug. 2.

For more information on the event, please contact the Lake County Fair Association at 223-2204.

The Demolition Derby is only one of many things that the whole family can enjoy at the 1998 Lake County Fair, running from July 28 to Aug. 2.

'Grease'

"Rob Findlay of Trevor, Wis. is playing Danny Zuko and Jacklyn Bigalke of Ingleside is playing Sandy Dumbrowski. "Grease" is directed by Mickey Mandel of Antioch and Barbara Russell of Gurnee is the music director. Linda Hachmeister of Antioch is the choreographer.

Production days are July 31 and Aug. 1 at 8 p.m. There will be a matinee production Aug. 2 at 2:30 p.m.

PM&L Theatre musicals have typically sold out all seats for their runs, so those who wish to reserve tickets for "Grease" may call the theater at 395-3055 or stop by the box office, Monday through Thursday from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. and Saturday from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. (also 90 minutes before curtain time on production dates).

Theatre auditions

The Waukegan Community Players

Children's Theatrical Group will hold auditions for their Christmas production of "The Best Christmas Pageant Ever" by Barbara Robinson. Auditions will be held at the Lilac Cottage in Waukegan on Saturday, Aug. 29 from 1 to 3 p.m. and Aug. 30 from 1 to 3 p.m. No appointments—auditions will be held on a first-come, first-serve basis. Roles for two men, six women, nine girls and eight boys are sought. These are all speaking roles and require some singing. No pay. Rehearsals will be held in Waukegan and show dates are Dec. 3, 4 & 5 during the day. For directions or more information, call 356-1445 or 360-1336.

Bowen auditions

Bowen Park Theatre Company will hold auditions Aug. 2 and 3 for the opening play of the 1998-99 season, Lillian Garrett-Groag's comedy "The Ladies of the Camellias." The play revolves around the characters Sarah Bernhardt and Eleanor Duse. The production will be directed by guest director Ken Smouse. Auditions will be held at the Jack Benny Center for the Arts, 39 Jack Benny Dr., just off N. Sheridan Rd. in Waukegan, from 7:30 to 10 p.m. Auditions will consist of cold reading from the script and are by appointment only. For more information or an appointment, call 360-4741.

'The Meeting'

Bowen Park Theatre Company will hold auditions for Jeff Stetson's play "The Meeting" on Dec. 5 and 6 from 1-4 p.m. at the Jack Benny Center for the Arts, 39 Jack Benny Dr., just off N. Sheridan Rd., in Waukegan. Call backs are scheduled from Monday evening at 7:30 p.m. "The Meeting" will be directed by guest director Debrah Neal.

Needed are three black male actors to portray Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., Malcolm X, and Rashad, Malcolm X's bodyguard. Production dates are Feb. 5, 6, 12, 13 at 8 p.m. and Feb. 7 and 14 at 3 p.m. There is a possibility of an additional run out performance.

"The Meeting" is about a fictitious meeting between the two great civil rights activists, Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. and Malcolm X. It is poignant, witty, sometimes humorous, and catches the spirits of these two historic figures. Because the length of the play is just over one hour, additional materials will be used by the actors before the actual play.

Auditions will be by appointment only and actors are asked to call 360-4741 to set a time for their individual audition. Bowen Park Theatre Company is a professional, non-union, non-equity company. There is pay.

'Cabaret'

Step back into 1930s Germany and experience Berlin's most decadent cabaret. It's thought-provoking, poignant and provocative. This American musical classic ensures an outstanding evening in adult theatre. The show runs through Aug. 30 at Pheasant Run Resort's Theatre, 4051 E. Main St., St. Charles.

For show times, ticket/dinner prices, or reservations, call (630) 584-MEGA.

ADDITIONAL LABELING INFORMATION: The Summit Technology SVS Laser is approved to perform photorefractive keratectomy (PRK) for the correction of mild to moderate myopia (1.5 to 7.0 diopters) in eyes with <1.5 diopters of astigmatism. Summit Technology's approval is based on clinical trials of more than 1,000 eyes together with safety information through 3 years of follow up. Alternatives to PRK are contact lenses, eyeglasses and radial keratotomy. Studies using a laser treatment zone in 341 eyes have found that at 6 months after treatment, uncorrected vision was 20/40 or better in 95% of eyes and 20/20 or better in 44% of eyes. In 7% of eyes, best corrected vision with eyeglasses declined more than one line with none worse than 20/40. Treatment complications up to several weeks included pain (24-48 hours), corneal swelling, double vision, feeling something in the eye, shadow images, light sensitivity, tearing, and pupil enlargement. The following adverse effects occurred in at least 1% of eyes within 6 months of treatment: night vision difficulty (1%), elevation of intraocular pressure (2%), heavy cornea affecting vision (2%), overcorrection or became farighted (1%), undercorrection or still nearsighted (3%), mild haze (10%), and minor glare (10%). Long term risks of PRK beyond three years have not been studied. This laser is not indicated to correct high myopia (near-sightedness) > 7.0 D, astigmatism, nearsightedness, or procedures not described in the System User's Manual.

Viagra—new hope for cheatin', old hearts!

And they say women are vain. Okay—we are! But while it's true that women place entirely too much emphasis on their looks when it comes to self-esteem, at least we don't put all our eggs in one basket, so to speak. A large number of men, on the other hand, tend to base their entire self-esteem on one small portion of their anatomy.

Did I say "small"? Oops - no harm intended. I meant "small in relation to the whole", okay?

Now, before I get a truckload of angry letters from you male readers who disagree with me on this self-esteem issue, first ask yourself this important question: "WHO ARE YOU KIDDING?!" Because you know that I'm right.

Which explains why the new drug, Viagra, has caused the biggest stampede to the doctor's office since Prozac. In other words, the latest pharmaceutical demand has switched from "happy" pills to "Mr. Happy" pills. Doctor's phones are ringing off the hook with men claiming that "they've fallen and they can't get up."

Now, if any of you have not yet heard about Viagra, I have to assume that you are:

- (A) A recluse
- (B) In between working television sets
- (C) Extremely confident in your own manhood
- (D) Dead, or
- (E) In solitary confinement in one of our state's fine penal (no pun intended) institutions.

Assuming you fall into one of the categories above other than (D), how can I explain to you what Viagra is without offending any of our more sensitive readers? Hmmm ...

think of a man as a car. And he has a flat tire. He goes to his doctor, who prescribes Viagra. Bingo—within an hour, the tire is inflated.

The original intention of this drug was, I believe, to treat a medical condition that causes men in their prime to—well, get a flat tire. Instead, it has suddenly become the "fountain of whoopee" for the senior male population. Consider the case of Roberta, the poor woman in Garden City, New York, whose long-time partner, 70-year old Francis, had been troubled with a flat tire for about four years. Along comes Viagra. The pill fixes his tire, he takes a test drive with Roberta, and two days later he leaves her a note, boasting about his new tire and telling her their relationship is over.

I have a feeling that randy old Francis will be just the tip of the iceberg. Viagra is really going to change things. For example, I used to work at a nursing home when I was 14, and for the most part, the residents there weren't doing a lot of bed hopping. Most of them couldn't hop, much less get out of bed. There was, however, this one randy old guy who looked like Charlie Weaver (if you remember him, I'll bet you're over 40). There was a nice porch on the building where many of the ladies would sit outside. "Charlie" used to position his chair across from the ladies so that he could peek at whatever flesh was exposed north of their knee highs.

Flash forward to 1998. Picture this same nursing home, only now there's Viagra. Suddenly, there are 20 "Charlie" types out on the porch trying to check out the ladies. Scary, isn't it?

Personally, I think we're going to need to step up security at our nation's senior centers and retirement communities, especially since some of the large insurance conglomerates have decided not to pay for the drug. It could spawn a whole new type of drug dealer—70-year-old men, driving Red Camaros with a hot 60-year-old on either arm, peddling Viagra on the shuffleboard court.

Next, divorce rates for elderly couples will skyrocket. Romantic getaway motels like "The Sybarus" will have to begin stocking the bathrooms with Dentu-Creme and Depends.

Now, don't get me wrong—I know that intimacy does not end just because you're over 30 (just don't tell my kids). But whatever happened to the natural aging process? And dignity? I mean, do we really need to worry about whether an 80 year old man can make whoopee whenever the mood strikes him? At that age, isn't it a little more important that he be able to find his teeth in the morning?

All I can say is, it's a rough world when you think that, thanks to Viagra, we ladies are now going to have to worry about staying in shape and keeping our husbands "satisfied" until the day we die.

So much for "retirement".

CRITIC'S CHOICE

'Playboy of the Western World' a stylish season finale

A hero one moment, an ignoble, cowardly dog the next. These extremes are played out in John M. Synge's 1907 play, "The Playboy of the Western World" in a darkly comedic, rousing production at Chicago's Steppenwolf Theatre.

It's a tale of a young Irish farmer who escapes the tyranny of an abusive father and seeks sanctuary from the peelers (police) in a small, gritty pub some miles from his home. In a topsy-turvy turn of events, each time he tells how he did away with his bully of a father with a mighty blow, the young man grows in stature among the townsmen—and women. In fact, the pub owner's daughter, a local widow and half the local teenage girls seem to have their eye on young Christy Mahon.

But his fortune goes quickly downhill when his father shows up very much alive. During another altercation, Christy repeats the murderous deed (with the same results).

Jim True is featured as the silver-tongued, good-looking playboy—a blighter who would assume a hero's guise. Martha Plimpton portrays Pegeen, the feisty, irrepressible innkeeper's daughter. And there's a large, well-balanced supporting cast, including Jerome Kilty (as the girl's father), Lanny Flaherty (Christy's father) and Moira Harris (the Widow Quin).

Four musicians—on fiddle, drum, pipes and flute—stroll on an elevated platform, adding a softening tone to the often-boisterous notes below.

"The Playboy of the Western World," directed by Doug Hughes, runs through Aug. 23. Ticket information is available at (312) 335-1650.—By Tom Witom

Barge Cruising Comes To America

by JIM WARNKEN,
President, North Star Travel, Inc.

The term "barge cruising" probably brings thoughts of a Huck Finn adventure where you catch a ride on one of those coal carrying flag boats common on the Mississippi.

Nothing could be further from the truth.

Barge cruising is actually a very luxurious way of traveling, common in Europe for many years. Now a company called RiverBarge Excursions is bringing that experience to America, but on a much larger scale.

While European barges carry on average about 20 passengers, the River Explorer now being built by RiverBarge Excursions, will have a capacity of 198.

Due to debut in August, the River Explorer will consist of two barges, one for passenger cabins and one for the public rooms, and a towboat which will actually push the barges. (Tugboats pull and towboats push).

Since the engine of the twin-barge unit will be located in the towboat, there will be no vibration or noise in the passenger barge.

The passenger barge will have two levels of 49 staterooms each, for a total of 198. The state rooms will be named after a state and numbered in the order of when the state joined the union. The upper and lower cabin will be named after the same state. For example, stateroom 118 and 218 will both be known as the Louisiana Room, since Louisiana was the 18th state. (Sorry, Hawaii, only room for 49 states).

The staterooms will all be 200 square feet and decorated according to the state they are named after with prints of the appropriate state capital, bird and flower. The upper level staterooms also boast a private verandah.

On the second barge is the Sprague Show Room which will feature jazz, country, Cajun or bluegrass music, depending on the ship's location which could be anywhere on the Mississippi, Cumberland, Missouri, Ohio or any other great American river.

Also on the second barge is the dining room, where meals are also reflective of the area. Meals consist of a buffet breakfast and lunch and family-style service at dinner with self-service snacks available 24 hours a day. Meals, as life in general aboard this barge, will be very informal.

Large wrap-around picture windows throughout the public areas allow for panoramic views of the constantly changing countryside.

All meals, port taxes and even gratuities and all shore excursions are included in the upfront price of around $200 to $250 per day depending on the itinerary and sailing dates.

movie review

Hope Stoddard

taught in school. That was before I saw "Saving Private Ryan."

I came away from this film with a new-found knowledge and even more appreciation for the courageous men who risked and gave their lives for our freedom on that Omaha Beach in Normandy, France on D-Day—June 6, 1944. I remember thinking, "No history class can ever teach this," as I sat watching with awe the incredibly realistic reenactment of hundreds of soldiers losing their lives in a way I couldn't even imagine in my worst nightmares.

Spielberg's use of a hand-held camera and "washed out" film makes for a brilliant "you-are-there" effect. The 24-minute D-Day footage is the movie's most important sequence—not only for its haunting realism, but for the lasting impression it leaves on your mind throughout the film, and after.

The based-on-actual-events storyline for "Saving Private Ryan" revolves around a mission to save one man, and in so doing, saving a family from complete devastation. Tom Hanks stars as Captain John Miller, the very private and somewhat mysterious leader of a platoon that landed on Normandy beach that fateful June day in 1944.

After most of his platoon lost their lives in the Normandy invasion, Miller gets an order "from the top"—to head a search and rescue mission to save one man, Pvt. James F. Ryan. It seems Ryan's three older brothers were killed in action within days of one another, and with Ryan being the youngest remaining brother, the Army feels it's their obligation to try to save the Iowa family from losing their last remaining son.

Miller accepts this mission, and is driven by the thought that this could be the mission that earns him his ticket home, reuniting him with his wife and family. He gathers members of his remaining platoon and a combat-shy interpreter and set out on their mission behind enemy lines.

The men have conversations about why it makes sense for the Army to send eight men on this mission, risking their lives to ultimately save only one man. How do they know Ryan isn't already dead? What if they all lose their lives? How can one life make up for their lives?

The men begin to build up anger and resentment for what could be a fruitless mission, and also for the soldier they've set out to save, but have never met. Through all this, Miller is more determined than ever to save Ryan. He knows what the ultimate mission is: home, family, and winning the war.

By luck, and after much hardship, the soldiers stumble upon Ryan, who throws a monkey wrench into the plot when he refuses to leave his short-handed fellow soldiers as they attempt to protect one of the two remaining bridges from impending enemy penetration.

Miller and his soldiers realize that in order to complete their mission, they must stand and defend the bridge alongside Ryan and his platoon. This is, of course, the defining moment of the movie.

Tom Hanks' supporting cast is excellent, as is Hanks' performance. Director Steven Spielberg casts the soldiers to represent the most typical, and perhaps predictable, personalities of a supporting cast—Tom Sizemore is Sgt. Horvath, Capt. Miller's right-hand man and protector; Ed Burns is Pvt. Reiben, the wise-cracking guy from Brooklyn who challenges the point of the mission; and Adam Goldberg is Pvt. Mellish, a Jewish guy from Yonkers who has an added incentive to defeat Hitler.

There's also Vin Diesel as Pvt. Caparzo, the likable Italian guy; Giovanni Ribisi is Medic Wade, the typical boy-next-door; Barry Pepper is the sharpshooter from Tennessee who quotes the Bible before firing his weapon; and Jeremy Davies is Corp. Upham, the "scared-as-a-mouse" interpreter who hasn't touched a gun since basic training.

Finally, there's Matt Damon as Private Ryan, the young boy they're all risking their lives to find. Adding small but solid performances to the film are Tom Hanks is Capt. John Miller in "Saving Private Ryan," a film that could earn Hanks another Oscar.

Dennis Farina and Ted Danson.

The special effects are outstanding in their realism. Steven Spielberg went to great lengths to authenticate his version of the Normandy Invasion and audiences will be awed by Spielberg's reenactment, as I was.

In fact, author Stephen E. Ambrose, a noted D-Day and World War II historian, is quoted as saying, "The film catches what happened exactly. It is, without question, the most accurate and realistic depiction of war on screen that I have ever seen..."

"Saving Private Ryan" gets four-and-a-half popcorn boxes. Hanks' performance could possibly earn himself a third Oscar statue, so he should start making room in his trophy case now. And, earning $30.1 million in its opening weekend, it looks like for Spielberg, "Saving Private Ryan" will be a titanic success!

Enjoying the colors of August

It is hard to believe, but tomorrow heralds the first day of August. August always reminds me of sweet corn, I can just taste the sweetness of it, and smell its aroma (I like it best roasted on the grill). Gardens are flourishing right about now, some perennials are done for the season, and some are just beginning to show their colors. Try to plan your cutting garden to have blooms always available until frost.

Daylilies that are done blooming should be cut to clean up the bed, and to keep the plants from squandering their strength supporting useless stalks. You do not want them to make seedpods. Sunflowers are great in the cutting garden. An ideal spot to plant sunflowers actually is in the back of a fence, that is about 4 feet tall, that way you would only see the tops. I enjoy them for their flowers and seeds but admittedly they do get ugly after they begin losing their lower leaves. A good variety to try is Autumn Beauty, 6 foot plants that make lots of gold, bronze, bright yellow, and mahogany colored flowers about 6 inches in diameter. Then Italian white is a light colored yellow flower with very dark centers.

In the heat of August the sun loving flowers are at their peak. Black-eyed susans and of course, the sunflowers are blooming away, also Cosmos "Sensation" which I've been growing year after year. They don't require much attention, besides dead heading, and they are great for cutting. They are mainly in shades of pink and rose, and occasionally white. Spider plants (OIcome) are interesting flowers that must be picked in the morning. If picked later and brought inside they will, but will perk up in three to four hours. If you grow them, leave plenty of room between plants, and in a border, they may need to be staked.

I have spoken about saving seeds before. For wild things like daisies and black-eyed susans this works great. I also have great luck saving marigolds and cosmos seeds year after year. But with hybrids of different colors it is pointless; because of cross pollination, you are unlikely to get the flower in the color you want.

This is also a good time of the year to attend garden sales. You can pick up perennials (daylilies for instance) rather cheaply, and many centers need to clear the yard for fall stock. This is also a good time to buy many garden supplies at a discount. Keep your eyes open for those bargains. Well, enjoy August-the last full month of summer.

Until next time, peace.

Volunteer nature conservation workdays set at forest preserves

If you're interested in hands-on work to save some of Lake County's natural areas, grab some work gloves and join other Lake County Forest Preserve volunteers at a Conservation Workday this summer.

As part of the Volunteer Stewardship Network, conservation workdays give volunteers an opportunity to help in the preservation of natural areas, spend time outdoors and make new friends who share a concern for the Preserves.

Conservation workdays are held at several Forest Preserves throughout Lake County:

Saturday, Aug. 1: 9 a.m., Almond Marsh, Prairie Wolf Slough, Independence Grove and Middlefork Savanna; 2 p.m., Half Day;

Saturday, Aug. 8: 9 a.m., Sun Lake and Cuba Marsh; 2 p.m., McDonald Woods;

Saturday, Aug. 15: 9 a.m., Lake Bluff and Waukegan Savanna; 2 p.m., Old School;

Sunday, Aug. 16: 9 a.m., Berkeley Prairie;

Saturday, Aug. 22: 9 a.m., Rollins Savanna, Ryerson Woods and Lyons Woods.

Volunteers help collect and sow prairie seeds, and assist with the removal of exotic plants which choke out native species.

No prior experience is necessary and all ages are invited. Volunteers should dress in long pants and sturdy shoes, and bring work gloves.

Call Tom Smith, Land Management Technician, at 984-7753, ext. 212, for directions to any of the workday sites, as meeting places tend to be off the beaten path.

'Marsh Madness' with the Lake County Forest Preserves

Take a giant step into a marsh and immerse yourself in the plants and animals that call this home. Join the Lake County Forest Preserves' Marsh Madness program on Saturday, Aug. 8, from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m., as Nature Guide Neal Hartman guides you through the award-winning marsh habitat of the Wetlands Demonstration Project near Wadsworth.

Wetlands are disappearing in the United States and northeastern Illinois at an ever-increasing rate. Discover what we can do to protect these valuable natural resources and the plants and animals that live in and around those marshy areas. With net in hand, you will explore the world of the invertebrates, vertebrates, birds, mammals and fishes that find the marsh impossible to live without.

Open to adults and families with children 9 years and older. Cost is $3 ($4 for non-Lake County residents). Reservations are required. Reservation deadline is Tuesday, Aug. 4.

Participants will meet at the Wadsworth Canoe Launch parking lot. The Wadsworth Canoe Launch is located on Wadsworth Rd., east of Route 41 near Wadsworth. For more information or to register, call 948-7750.

For comfortable and casual family dining at its best, amid the wooded scenery of Lake County, it's Jesse Oaks Food and Drink, located at 18490 W. Old Gages Rd., in Gages Lake.

Acres of oak trees and lots of golden oak paneling comprise the warm atmosphere offered at Jesse Oaks, owned and operated by Skip Smith.

Jesse Oaks can be your favorite place to stop for a drink, or a delicious home-cooked meal, or even the place to celebrate a special occasion in an attractive dining room that seats 80 people.

It's also the place for an invigorating game of sand volleyball, a fast horseshoe contest, and an exciting game of pool or steel darts. During the nice weather, the outdoor beer garden is a busy place. There is now an outdoor bar called The Thirsty Acorn which is open weekday evenings and all day Sunday.

The restaurant and the wonderful times had there, and those planned for the future, are dedicated to the memory of Janet E. Smith, J-E-S, for whom, along with the surrounding golden oaks, the restaurant is named.

Jesse Oaks offers delicious homemade pizza, an oyster and shrimp bar, crunchy fish fry every Friday, succulent prime rib served on Saturday, tangy BBQ ribs served Thursday through Saturday, as well as hamburgers, fresh fish, chicken entrees, hot dogs, brats and Polish sausage.

No energy crisis for Victory volunteers

In 1891, volunteer community members were instrumental in beginning Lake County's first hospital.

Today, more than 320 people of all ages carry on that volunteer spirit at Victory Memorial Hospital, Waukegan. They perform a variety of tasks in more over 40 areas of the hospital. At Victory, volunteer staff deliver mail and flowers, keep family members informed, staff waiting rooms, provide directions, label and sort large mailings, and much more. In all, they contribute over 43,870 hours to the support of their community through volunteer service at Victory.

Recently, Victory President Tim Harrington thanked the volunteer staff for their contribution to Victory, its patients and employees, at the hospital's Volunteer Recognition Luncheon held in the ballroom of the Country Squire Restaurant, Grayslake. ## Health, fitness center gets nod

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ
Correspondent

A new health and fitness institute is coming to Lindenhurst.

Lake Forest Hospital, which will operate the two-story, 65,000 square foot facility to be located in the Lindenhurst Center for Business adjacent to Falling Waters on Hwy. 45, made an informational presentation to the village board at a recent meeting.

Ground breaking ceremonies for the $7.5 million project are anticipated in August with a grand opening scheduled for fall of 1999.

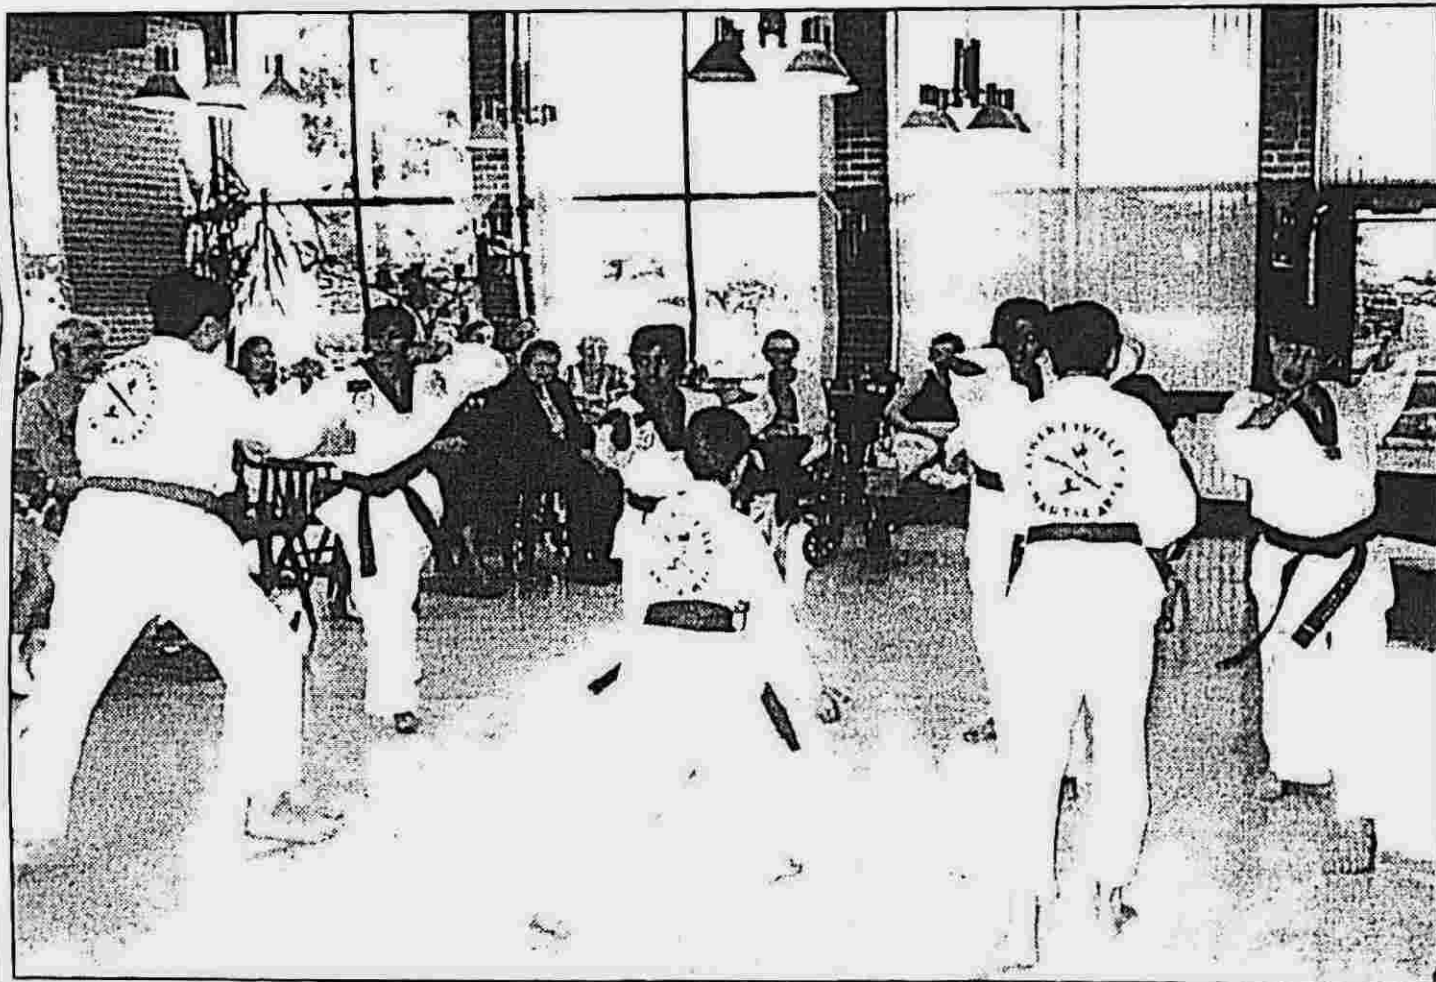

The medically based facility will include medical offices for primary care and specialized physicians, a gymnasium and running track, swimming pool with a warm water therapy pool, cardiovascular and strength training equipment, education/exercise classrooms, locker rooms, a childcare area for persons using the facility and a deli.

Plans include outpatient physical therapy, sports medicine and programs for persons with chronic conditions such as emphysema and diabetes.

The building is to be constructed in similar style to the present Lake Forest Hospital campus and similar facility off Hwy. 43 in Lake Forest.

"Lake Forest Hospital is really excited about bringing this project to the Lindenhurst community," said Marti Derleth, vice president and CEO for Lake Forest Hospital Fitness Institute (LFHFI).

The announcement follows marketing research conducted by the hospital following the opening of a similar facility over four years ago in Lake Forest. The research showed a need for such a project in the western part of the county with Lindenhurst being chosen for the site after other communities, including Gurnee, declined offers from LFHFI.

Free vision checks offered at Sears Optical

Good vision is the primary concern at Sears Optical's sixth annual All American Vision Check Day, on Sunday, Aug. 2, from noon to 4 p.m., when free vision checks will be offered at Sears Optical, 730 E. Rollins Rd. (Mallard Creek), Round Lake Beach. All American Vision Check Day takes place at 800 Sears Optical locations nationwide, including off-the-mall departments located in strip shopping centers.

The free vision checks are co-sponsored by Prevent Blindness America. Celebrating its 90th anniversary, Prevent Blindness America is the nation's leading volunteer eye health and safety organization dedicated to saving sight. The vision check takes five to seven minutes to complete and no appointment is necessary.

The vision checks measure near and distance vision for clarity and need for correction. For children as young as 2-1/2, the Lea Symbols Test, with familiar shapes instead of letters of the alphabet, will be used. For older children and adults, the Snellen chart (E-chart) will be used to measure sharpness of distance vision. The Near Vision Reader Card will be used to check near vision.

"Through these vision checks, we may be able to detect vision problems in a substantial number of people who do not realize they are having a problem," said Gregory Hasto, O.D., Independent Doctor of Optometry associated with Sears Optical. "Children, particularly, don't know when they aren't seeing properly, and undetected vision problems can affect their academic performance."

Further visual evaluation and a comprehensive eye examination will be recommended when the vision check indicates a possible vision problem. While a vision check is a good first step in protecting eye health and preventing unnecessary blindness, it does not take the place of a regular eye examination.

All American Vision Check Day ushers in National Eye Exam Month™, an educational and philanthropic effort co-sponsored by Sears, Sears Optical and Prevent Blindness America to increase awareness of the importance of eye exams and raise funds for Prevent Blindness' sight saving programs. Sears and Sears Optical will make a donation to the non-profit organization for every vision check performed on All American Vision Check Day. During the past nine years, Sears and the Independent Doctors of Optometry have contributed almost $1.5 million to Prevent Blindness America.

For more information on All American Vision Check Day, call Sears Optical at 740-2020.

Helping a child draw the line with germ phobia

Dear Dr. Singer, My child had an experience at camp recently that really made me think. Another child had some sort of viral infection and my son was terrified to go back to camp. He was afraid of catching it. I don't want my child to be so terrified of germs that he becomes a recluse, but I do want to educate him on hygiene and how to be reasonably careful.

It is a pretty scary thing these days and I have always been very careful when the kids use public washrooms. I tell them to not touch anything too much, etc. Any thoughts? F.H.

Dear F.H.,

This is a concern every parent has. How to walk that fine line between reason and too much caution.

First, I would suggest that you speak with your pediatrician to get

PARENT'S PLACE

your facts straight about viral infections and illnesses. Since I don't have enough information about what this child has, it is difficult to say whether your child has a legitimate concern.

I believe viruses are hard to pass and that bacterial infections are easier to pass. I'm not a Medical Doctor so check my facts here with your own Doctor. If your Doctor can clarify these facts for you, you might be able to calm your son. He needs to know that even if he were to get sick with something he caught, there are medications that will clear it up.

Now that doesn't mean that he should go out of his way to not be careful, but it may make him feel more comfortable to know that most of the time these "bugs" need very stable environments to get passed. They need certain conditions.

There is a difference between cleanliness and risk for illness. Certainly, if you are going out of your way to be as dirty as possible, odds say that eventually you will have some sort of problem. Under most normal circumstances, however, contracting any serious form of illness from being around someone or using a public restroom seems very minor.

Certainly, anyone who has kids knows how the cold, the flu, etc. goes from one to the next, but they are usually quickly recovered from. Now, cleanliness is important. Obviously in a public restroom you want to be careful about how you are handling things. Sounds like you are already on top of that.

You might want to try and separate this out for your child. Let the child know that the majority of the time, serious illness is not easy to get by being in the same room with someone.

Ask him to stay at a reasonable distance from someone who is sick. Educate him on the fact that most illnesses happen from hand to eye and hand to face contact. In other words, we touch things that have been touched by someone with a cold and then rub our eyes, nose or mouth and presto, we get a cold.

Now, watch out that this doesn't start compulsive hand washing. Washing hands often is not a bad thing, especially in a classroom or camp, however, you don't want the child to wash constantly. In between washings, he might use the back of his hand to rub his eye or use his shoulder.

They also make an antibacterial hand wash now that does not require water. There are several brands out and I understand that it kills germs and reduces the chances of spreading illnesses. I use it between each session since getting down to wash my hands in between is not always possible. By telling him these things it might make him feel more in control and less afraid to be around someone who is sick.

From a general standpoint, I would also find out more about what this other child has. Hopefully if the child knows about the illness it means that he or she is already on some sort of medication, reducing the chance of any transmission. If this is something easily passed, you want to be sure to have information and take precautions. Hope this helps.

Lake Forest Hospital opens Lactation Center for breastfeeding mothers

Lake Forest Hospital (LFH) recently opened its new Lactation Center to provide education and support for breastfeeding mothers.

LFH's Lactation Center provides comprehensive breastfeeding services, including individual sessions with an international board certified lactation consultant (IBCLC), breast pump rentals and sales, support groups and peer counseling. Other products designed specifically to assist with breastfeeding are also available for purchase.

With leading health authorities, including the American Academy of Pediatrics (AAP), endorsing and promoting breast milk as the preferred source of infant nutrition, more and more mothers are seeking optimal health protection for their babies through breastfeeding.

"The Lactation Center allows us to continue the education and support to our breastfeeding mothers that began in the Maternity Services department. It also gives us the opportunity to serve other women in the surrounding communities who are breastfeeding," said Cathy Abrams, RN, IBCLC, who manages the Lactation Center.

'The Lactation Center allows us to continue the education and support to our breastfeeding mothers that began in the Maternity Services department. It also gives us the opportunity to serve other women in the surrounding communities who are breastfeeding.'

Cathy Abrams, RN, IBCLC, Lactation Center manager

Approximately 85 percent to 90 percent of mothers who deliver at LFH attempt to breastfeed and 50 percent of those women continue nursing their babies for at least the next three months. My goal is to see those numbers increase."

By working individually with patients like Cheryl Dorwin, formerly of Zion, Ill., Abrams is making an impact one mom at a time. "After years of infertility treatment I was finally able to have my first child and was looking forward to breastfeeding my son," said Dorwin. "I didn't expect any problems but became frustrated by the experience because I wasn't producing enough milk."

Dorwin went to her OB/GYN, LFH's Joseph Purpura, MD, who thought Abrams might be able to help so he referred her to the Lactation Center. "In terms of guidance, there's a lot of conflicting information out there about breastfeeding," Dr. Purpura said. "That's why it's important to seek professional services. Typically, there's some anxiety associated with breastfeeding and involvement from a trained professional can mean the difference between success and failure."

After only a few sessions, Abrams was able to help Dorwin and give her the confidence she needed to hang in there. "Cathy was like a voice of reason and common sense. She assured me that I wasn't doing anything wrong and gave me some ideas that helped produce better results. She also talked with Dr. Purpura and he prescribed a drug which helped with my milk production. It really made a difference for me and I'm so glad I didn't give up trying."

A physician referral is not necessary to obtain Lactation Center services, however, please check with your insurance provider to verify coverage.

The Lactation Center is located in the lower level of the 900 Bays Medical Building on the campus of Lake Forest Hospital, 660 N. Westmoreland Rd. For more information, call Cathy Abrams, RN, IBCLC, at 847-295-3619, extension 5306.

"Luv Ewes" get creative while helping cheer up patients at Good Shepherd Hospital

The Luv Ewes volunteers helped to cheer up patients at Good Shepherd Hospital during the recent Bulls fever with handmade "Bulls Boutonnieres" and "Go Bulls" tray cards. They also started the celebration early as they showed off their creativity by designing Forth of July tray cards decorated with the American Flag and mini paper fireworks.

One of the most generous donations auxiliaries and volunteers make to Good Shepherd Hospital's Auxiliary is to volunteer their time every Wednesday and Thursday to make beautiful hand-crafted tray favors for patients and caps to keep newborn infants' heads warm.

Many of the Luv Ewes also volunteer their time throughout the hospital by working as greeters at the information desk, delivering flowers and cards to patients, and assisting on the patient floors.

If you are interested in volunteer opportunities at the hospital or would like to become a member of Good Shepherd's Auxiliary, call 381-0123, ext. 5093.

Good Shepherd Hospital is a 156-bed health care facility and a level II trauma center with more than 400 physicians representing 35 medical specialties.

Good Shepherd Hospital, located north of Barrington, is part of Advocate Health Care, one of the largest health care organizations in the Chicago area.

Caution: Lawn grooming can ruin your trees

There's nothing like the din of lawn mowers and the smell of fresh-cut grass to signal summer. For trees, though, lawn mowers can signal impending doom. When a lawn mower collides with the base of a tree, the resulting trunk wound can be hazardous to tree health—making the tree susceptible to what some tree-care experts call "lawn mower-itis."

"These trunk wounds can be quite serious, in some cases eventually killing a tree," says Larry Hall, senior vice president of Wheeling-based Hendricksen the Care of Trees. "Sometimes one or more branches begin to die shortly after the damage has occurred. Other times, years may pass before the tree shows any sign of trouble."

"We're seeing a growing number of incidents of lawn mower-itis as mowers become bigger and more powerful," says Hall. "Self-propelled mowers can be particularly destructive, since they can get away from you. And what might seem like a slight nudge can indeed injure a tree."

Hall points out that thin-barked trees, such as lindens, birches, maples and magnolias, are more vulnerable to trunk damage than those with more rugged bark, such as oaks, elms, and ashes. All young trees, regardless of species, are at risk.

Lawn mowers are not the only type of maintenance equipment that can damage tree trunks. Shovels, "weed-whackers," and out-of-control fertilizer spreaders can bump into trunks and/or cut nearby roots, which is also injurious to trees.

The best way to prevent lawn mower-itis is to spread a layer of mulch around the base of your tree. Mulch made of organic materials such as wood chips, ground corn cobs or composted leaves not only keeps lawn mowers and other maintenance equipment away from trees but enhances the growing environment as well. It conditions the soil around the trees, retains moisture and helps tree roots absorb water and nutrients.

Ideally, mulch should form a circle around the base of the tree that extends out as far as the branches do. But if you do not want to sacrifice that much grass, a tree-healthy compromise is to mulch from the base of the tree outward at least a few feet.

If a ring of mulch is not an option, be sure to use landscaping equipment around your trees with care.

With roots dating back to 1946, Hendricksen the Care of Trees provides complete tree care, including pruning, fertilizing and pest management, for residential, commercial and municipal properties. As well as maintaining trees and shrubs, Hendricksen's certified arborists work with developers to preserve trees at new developments. They also conduct tree appraisals for tax, insurance, and legal purposes. The company has eight Chicago-area offices and offers 24 hour emergency service.

Plant care provides benefits for gardeners in later years

A little greenery can enrich the lives of older people, according to the University of Illinois researchers.

"Working with plants promotes physical health, a perception of well-being and an increased capacity to pay attention," said William Sullivan, assistant research professor in the Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Sciences.

House plants and gardens allow elderly people to exercise arthritic fingers and joints as well as provide opportunities to be creative and useful. Evidence supports studies indicating reduced blood pressure, less stress and lower instances of depression in older people as a result of cultivating plants.

Plants offer social benefits as well. Older people often grow plants together in their communities which provides a setting for social interaction and companionship.

"Research shows that social ties are established with neighbors through gardens, trees and lawns and those social relationships grow through taking pride in maintaining plants," said Byoung-Suk Kweon, graduate student. "In this way, elderly people feel useful and helpful. They interact with each other and make new friends."

Kweon said creativity and manual performance increase as a result of working with plants.

"It is not the type of plant being cultivated that really matters," she said, "but the physical act of caring for and nurturing the plant that helps the elderly."

Horticultural therapy researchers say people who care for and tend to the needs of plants rediscover a sprig of usefulness and vitality in their own lives. Horticulture therapy has been used in nursing homes, hospitals, jails and other institutions.

Researchers also feel older individuals find a sense of pride in their communities by sharing in gardening and plant maintenance.

Physical disabilities, such as arthritis and fatigue, often ease with the sense of pride and comfort they felt in raising children, and that eases feelings of usefulness and weariness, said Kweon.

Most importantly, working with plants passes the time with friends and eases the feelings of loneliness.

Settling a dispute with your broker

Most investment representatives are reputable people who work hard to help their clients succeed financially. The vast majority of investors have good relationships with their financial professionals.

Occasionally, however, investors have a dispute with a broker or financial professional. Some people in this situation file lawsuits. However, a lawsuit can be an expensive and harrowing ordeal. It's reported that more than 14.5 million civil lawsuits are filed annually, and the typical case takes three to four years to get to trial.

Fortunately, investors with legitimate arguments have another option, called alternate dispute resolution (ADR). ADR can be a two-step process. First, mediation is attempted. If unsuccessful, mediation may be followed by binding arbitration.

In mediation, both parties cooperate to solve the problem. A lawyer is not needed. However, the mediator — a person specially trained in dispute resolution — is often a lawyer, possibly a former judge. In securities cases, the mediator is generally familiar with securities law.

The mediator typically meets privately with each party to discuss the case and possible solutions. Approximately 85 percent of mediated disputes conclude in voluntary settlements. In the small percentage of cases where mediation fails, it is usually suggested both parties go to binding arbitration.

Arbitration is a method of having arbitrators (impartial persons who are knowledgeable in the areas of dispute) dictate a resolution. According to the Security Industry Conference on Arbitration (SICA), arbitration has long been used as an alternative to the courts because it is a prompt and inexpensive means of resolving complicated securities issues.

Unlike mediation, "an arbitrator award is final and binding. It is subject to review by a court only on a very limited basis," says the SICA. After arbitration has been selected, the parties generally give up their right to pursue the matter through the courts.

Yet arbitration is much simpler than a court trial. Rules of evidence, witnesses and testimony are relaxed. The arbitrators (typically three, representing the legal profession, the securities industry and the public) are more interested in hearing the entire story and reaching a fair decision than in getting mired in every detail. With arbitration, both parties can — and typically do — use lawyers, but the legal fee is usually only a fraction of what it would be for a court case.

A variety of organizations sponsor arbitration, including the national and regional stock exchanges, The Municipal Securities Rulemaking Board and the National Association of Securities Dealers (NASD).

The vast majority of securities disputes are solved by simple, open dialogues with your broker. If an error has been made, a legitimate firm will be anxious to rectify it. But if this doesn't work, consider ADR before jumping into a lengthy and expensive lawsuit.

How much stock exposure should your portfolio have?

A reader recently wrote to ask me how much of his portfolio should be invested in the stock market.

Like the answer to many financial questions the answer to this question was, "It depends." It depends on your risk tolerance. Do you have the mental toughness to maintain your stock position when the stock market goes into a real bear market? It depends on your investment time horizon. And, it depends on your portfolio performance expectations.

Let's look at these factors to help you determine how much exposure to the stock market is right for you.

- Your risk tolerance. How much volatility can you tolerate in your portfolio? Think back to 1973 and 1974 when the S&P 500 fell over 50 percent. Could you resist selling into a bear market like that? The problem with selling into a bear market is that you never know when to get back into the market.

One investment advisor asks, "How do you make money in the stock market?" His answer: "Be invested in the market at the bottom. How do you ensure you're at the bottom? Always be invested."

I believe that statement and encourage my clients only to invest in the market, those monies that you are prepared to leave in the market long term. I can tell you that trying to time the markets is an exercise in futility. Make a commitment to your stock investment.

Rest of life

- Investment time horizon. Too many investors do not understand their real time horizon. I often talk with working individuals who think that their investment time horizon for their 401(k) monies is until their retirement date. They get very conservative with their 401(k) monies when they have only several years to retirement.

What I tell my clients is that they should think of their time horizon as the rest of their lives. At retirement time, you will most likely roll over your 401(k) monies to a rollover IRA account. That account will need to last you the rest of your life.

You will still need a reasonable position in the stock market in your IRA rollover account to combat inflation. Do not be fooled into thinking that your retirement date is the end of your stock investing. Your life expectancy should be your investment time horizon.

- Your portfolio return expectations.

I always design a client's investment portfolio with an expected rate of return in mind. Unfortunately, with the strong bull market that we have experienced for the past 10 years, many of today's investors have unrealistic expectations when it comes to their portfolio's long term return.

Approximately 80 percent of investors recently surveyed do not expect to see a 20 percent decline in the stock market in the next 10 years. And 56 percent of investors believe that stocks will return better than 14 percent per year for the next 10 years. From 10/11/90 to 6/30/97, the stock market as measured by the DJIA was up 22.5 percent annually.

People come to expect this type of performance and it is not representative of the market's long term performance. For the past 30 years, the market has averaged 12.2 percent, not the 22.5 percent people have seen recently.

Based on these long term averages, we can then develop a portfolio that will be expected to generate a given long term return. It also forces our clients to have more realistic expectations for their portfolio.

Only after you consider these factors can you decide how much exposure your portfolio should have in the stock market. Each individual will be different. I suggest that you find a qualified financial planner who can help you answer this question.

AARP study finds boomers vary in retirement views

Financial security defines attitudes

While America's Baby Boomers are re-defining what it means to retire, the boomers have differing approaches to and outlooks on their retirement years, according to highlights of a new AARP study.

Baby Boomers Look Toward Retirement as a nationwide in-depth study that sheds new light on boomer attitudes, expectations and behaviors regarding retirement.

Conducted for AARP's Research Group by Roper Starch Worldwide, the study focuses on 2001 boomers born from 1946 through 1964, who are now adults aged 33-52.

"We know that boomers are not the monolithic group some descriptions would indicate," said Margaret Dixon, President of the 42 million member AARP. "We are now learning that boomers, at least in how they see their futures, apparently fall into various groups."

One of the most striking findings of the study is what boomers envision themselves doing during their retirement years with respect to work. Unlike their parents' generation, fully 80 percent of boomers believe that they will continue to work during retirement, and only 16 percent expect not to work for pay at all during their retirement years. More than one in three (35%) expects to work part-time mainly for the interest or enjoyment work provides, while another 23 percent expect to work part-time mainly for the income. A small percentage (5%) expect to retire from their present job or career but work full-time doing something else, and 17 percent expect to start their own businesses.

When it comes to thinking about what retirement means to them, boomers express a wide range of emotion. According to the study, 74 percent of boomers say that "a time to pursue interests and hobbies" accurately describes their view of retirement, and the same percentage (74%) see retirement as an "opportunity to spend more time with family." Only 15 percent expect that they will have "increased dependence on others for personal care." Almost one in five (19%) expect retirement to be the "end of their productive years" and 12 percent expect to feel "increased isolation from society" during their retirement years, according to the study.

"The conventional wisdom has been that Baby Boomers are unprepared for retirement. This study clearly shows that the majority have awakened to the prospect of retirement and are actively aware of what they have to do to prepare for it," said Edward B. Keller, President of Roper Starch Worldwide.

Among the 2,001 boomers in the survey, more than two in three (69%) are optimistic about their retirement years, while 29% are not optimistic.

The relationships between household income and outlook is evident in this study. Those who make $70,000 a year or more (25% of all Boomers) tend to be optimistic about their retirement. Four in five of them (82%) are upbeat, and only 17% are not. In contrast, of those boomers whose household income is less than $30,000 per year or less (about one in five boomers), only half (50%) are optimistic about their retirement years.

This study, which describes those with higher household incomes as "Haves" ($70,000 and over) and those with lower incomes as "Have Nots," (less than $30,000 in household income), finds that economic status plays out in other aspects of retirement expectations as well. For example, the "Haves" are nearly twice as likely as the "Have Nots" to have given a great deal of thought to their retirement years (49% vs. 28%), and 44 percent of the Have Nots do not expect to be able to retire at all, according to the study.

The boomers' outlook on other aspects of the future varies between the "Haves" and the "Have Nots." 52 percent of the "Haves" plan to work during their retirement for fun and self-fulfillment, while 35 percent of the "Have Nots" plan to work for the income it will provide. 82 percent of the "Haves" say they can count on their IRA, 401(K), or other retirement savings account as a source of income during their retirement years, while only 46 percent of the "Have Nots" can make the same claim, according to the study.

This study provides highlights of a nationwide telephone survey conducted for AARP by Roper Starch Worldwide. The survey findings were based on telephone interviews of approximately 30 minutes in length. Interviews were conducted by Roper Starch Worldwide with a national cross-section of 2,001 adults aged 33 to 52, from April 1 to April 27, 1998. The margin of sampling error is +/-

AARP: Medicare beneficiaries know little about HMOs

Almost nine out of 10 (89%) Medicare beneficiaries don't yet have the knowledge to make an informed choice between traditional fee-for-service Medicare and HMOs, according to a new AARP study in five high-penetration Medicare-managed care markets. Additionally, beneficiaries in the traditional Medicare program know more than HMO enrollees about the differences between the two systems.

The study, "An Assessment of Medicare Beneficiaries' Understanding of the Differences Between the Traditional Medicare Program and HMOs," is the first in-depth look at what beneficiaries know about HMOs. It was conducted for AARP's Public Policy Institute by health policy experts Judith Hibbard and Jacquelyn Jewett of the University of Oregon.

With Medicare + Choice, changes in Medicare will begin to be implemented soon, and many Medicare beneficiaries will be able to consider the new health plan options authorized by the Balanced Budget Act of 1997. Included in those choices are traditional Medicare, HMOs, preferred provider organizations, provider-sponsored organizations, private fee-for-service plans and medical savings accounts.

"The Congressional Budget Office predicts that in just four years, one-fourth of all beneficiaries will be enrolled in some type of risk-based plan," said Theresa Varner, director of AARP's Public Policy Institute.

"To make informed choices, beneficiaries must understand the differences among health care options as well as the implications of each option for cost, choice and care. This research calls into question whether beneficiaries are prepared to make informed decisions, even under the present circumstances when choices are more limited," she said.

A telephone survey was fielded in five locations with high managed care penetration: San Bernardino, San Diego, Tucson, Miami, and Albuquerque. "The study findings are especially troubling," Varner said, "These were high penetration HMO markets. In areas where beneficiary exposure to HMOs is less, knowledge is also likely to be less."

The study documents that beneficiaries do not understand the important concepts underlying HMOs. For example, only about half of those who had some knowledge about HMOs understood the concepts of "primary care provider" and "network of physicians," concepts that are key to how HMOs work and that have important implications for enrollees.

The survey found HMO advertisements to be the most common source of information (identified by 55 % of the respondents), followed by newspaper and magazine articles (47%) and word of mouth from friends and family (44%). It also found the larger the number of information sources used, the greater the knowledge level of beneficiaries.

In reacting to this study's findings, AARP's Director of Legislation and Public Policy John Rother, notes, "By expanding the number of different options that beneficiaries may choose from, Congress has substantially raised the importance of education and information. If we fail to provide beneficiaries with the tools they need, we are courting the possibility of confusion and anxiety for those on Medicare. The question is whether the information infrastructure is in place to meet the educational needs of a diverse beneficiary population."

Educating Medicare beneficiaries about the complex subject of health care choices is a big challenge," continues Rother. "More resources are clearly needed to meet that challenge."

To begin addressing beneficiaries' educational needs, AARP has created publications about managed care as well as published articles on Medicare + Choice in its monthly Bulletin and will run a feature in an upcoming issue of Modern Maturity magazine. This fall, AARP will test programs that will include market-specific material designed to help beneficiaries better understand the Medicare choices being offered.

Parked for life

By LESLIE PIOTROWSKI
Staff Reporter

When William Park ran for mayor of Long Grove last year at the age of 89, he surprised more than just a few people. But anyone who knows his principles, would hardly be surprised.

Living in Long Grove since 1938, he and his wife, Virginia have firmly stood by their belief in civic responsibility. Community involvement has been a cornerstone of their lives. Park joined the Long Grove school board back in the early 1940s when four different one-room schools served the community.

"We were concerned about the education of our children in a rural area," said Park, who is a native of Evanston. "But it was a good education after all."

He consolidated the schools into one, Kildeer School, which became not only a center for education but for cultural activities and events as well.

He later served on the board of Adlai E. Stevenson High School on Route 22 in Half Day for 17 years. The facility became one of the first national schools of merit in the area.

In the meantime, Virginia was busily making sure that the area's history wasn't forgotten. She formed the Long Grove Historical Society in 1956 and the Vernon Township Historical Society in 1966. "Lore & Legend," her award-winning book on the history of Long Grove, was published in 1978.

She also helped shape opinions

Her editorials were well-read by the community. "If Virginia backed a certain view, it would probably pass," said her husband.

When the Vernon Town Crier was acquired by Lakeland Newspapers in 1986, she stayed on as a guest editor for seven years, writing columns about her insights, politics and travel.

But while Virginia is known as a journalist, her real interest has always been her family.

"She was a champion of the home-making mother," said her daughter, Deborah Mynatt. "What she did with the community and newspaper was an extension of her duties as a mother and parent. Her idea was that the family was at the center of everything that you do."

The couple is unified in what they support politically and socially. One of their biggest concerns is getting people more involved in the community.

"It's like pulling teeth to get people involved in running for elections," said Virginia.

"Everyone must contribute to the community," said William. "People need to contribute by serving on the board or by doing other constructive things."

While local politics are a central focus, they also are strong advocates of education and reading.

"What bothers me is that education will be computerized and televised, without enough emphasis on reading," said Virginia.

A Safe Place fights the battle against domestic abuse

By STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

A Safe Place, a Lake County Crisis Center, is pleased with additional personnel assigned to processing orders of protection.

But the struggle against domestic violence situations continues, more than 10 years after the agency established a special room at Lake County Courthouse.

"The Lake County Sheriff's Department has increased its number of people to serve orders of protection from two to 90 persons, 24 hours a day. More domestic violence reports are coming forward every day, but it is still an unreported crime. Now it is okay to talk about domestic violence," Ross said.

The orders of protection are often voluminous, more than 10 pages. But with them, law enforcement personnel are more likely to follow through on a domestic violence call.

"We offer a comprehensive program with counseling and support groups and a shelter of 35 beds for victims of domestic violence," said Marsha Ross, A Safe Place's coordinator of volunteers and community education.

The award-winning agency's volunteers staff a room in the Lake County Courthouse, where those awaiting domestic violence court cases can go for support. Previously, there was no place for victims to go the same day they confronted the see how local businesses utilize technology.

When most children think of summer camp, they think of swimming, boating, or hiking in the woods. But on August 3, more than two dozen Lake County eighth graders will get a different kind of camping experience: They will attend the AT&T Computer Scholars Camp at the College of Lake County.

The program at CLC is one of five AT&T-funded camps geared to expose young people to computers and the Internet. AT&T's grant of $115,000 ensures that admission is free for all participants.

"AT&T has a commitment to make sure that the information super highway is accessible to all sectors of the community," said Dorothy Foster, AT&T director of community technology programs. "So we arrange programs with community groups to promote access."

The CLC camp is for children in Waukegan, North Chicago and Round Lake who lack access to computers. The participants will learn basic skills such as communicating via E-mail, using the Internet as a research tool and developing web pages. They also will take field trips to

When the camp is over, the participants will continue to meet several times throughout the year.

"This gives students more chances to practice skills they learned and develop new skills," said Carole Ewing, CLC's regional coordinator for north Lake County. She plans to even take them to a cyberspace cafe.

Ewing said that the pre- and post-tests given to the participants at the beginning and end of the session have proven that the program is successful. "You'd be surprised how much information they glean," she said.

Lea Ridgeway, a Waukegan 15-year-old, raved about last year's program. "It was really fun," she said. "It showed me how to use Yahoo and how to get E-mail. I didn't know anything about the computer before that."

In addition to the camp at CLC, AT&T is sponsoring camps at Governor's State University in University Park, Little Village Boys & Girls Clubs in Chicago, the University of Illinois in Chicago and at Waubesa Community College in Sugar Grove. For more information, call (847) 543-2759.

Inquest held in murder

Although it will have no bearing on Dennis Lortie's murder trial, the Lake County Coroner held an inquest July 29 on the death of James P. Lortie, his father.

Dennis Lortie's attorney, Thomas Briscoe, of Waukegan, said the coroner's inquest jury, consisting of six members and one alternate, is just an advisory board, and nothing coming out of it can be brought forward into any civil or criminal court case.

Lortie, 19, has been out on $15,000 bail—10 percent of a $150,000 bond—since July 16. His attorney could not be reached for comevenings in front of the television set, the couple wrote and published "With Rhyme & Reason," a collection of poems and essays, in 1992. They spend much time reading and discussing what they read with each other.

"We discuss little nuances of language that have changed over the years," William said. "For instance, everyone knows the line: 'Little Miss Muffet sat on a tuffet,' but who knows what a toffit is? It's a stool made from a pot set upside down."

Their interest in history and the past is evident all around their house and grounds. On the porch hangs a hewing ax, which early settlers used to square timber for building log cabins.

There's an old B & O Railroad caboose in the backyard and a locomotive bell from the Rock Island Line in front of the house. They recently donated their Aptakisic railroad sign to the Lake County Museum.

William clearly has a fascination with trains. A set of tracks runs a half-mile around the property, replete with a bridge and railroad crossing signs.

It took Park 12 years to build a steam locomotive engine for the track and another three to finish the tender or coal car. They store the locomotive in a roundhouse on the property and bring it out occasionally to take people for rides.

The Willowbrook Woods enclave where they live is typical of old Long Grove. A few homes are scattered among large, heavily-wooded pieces of land. For 60 years, the couple has watched the area transform from a farming community to a tony suburb.

"It was farmland when we moved here," said Virginia. "Now it's suburbia."

"People from my parents' generation moved here to live in the country," said Mynatt. "But the new residents have moved the North Shore to Long Grove."

The Parks, both from Evanston, moved to Long Grove the day after their wedding in 1938. Virginia said they originally met when, "Some one told him to visit the red-headed girl in the real estate office."

"Shortly afterwards, we were married," he said.

Park is by trade a kitchen and bath designer. For many years, he ran William B. Park, Inc. on Skokie Highway. He is now in the process of selling the 100-year-old business that he originally purchased from his father.

In addition to Deborah Mynatt, who lives in Tennessee, they have two other children: Drusilla, who lives in Baltimore, and Daniel, who lives in Long Grove. They pride themselves that none of their children are divorced.

Today, Virginia is 88 and William is about to turn 90, but they remain quite active. Virginia is still involved with the historical society and William is writing "The Rebel Establishment," a book that is autobiographical in nature.

Mynatt attributes her parents' longevity to an ideal marriage.

"This is an exceedingly loving couple," said Mynatt. "They complement each other. It's not often you see a couple living together for 60 years who are still in love with each other."

domestic violence defendants.

The separate room was established after winning support from Lake County State's Attorneys office some 17 years ago. Lake County Circuit Court Judge Helen Franks now handles domestic violence cases.

"It helps to achieve some sense of self esteem. If dad hits mom, children may not know any other way to work out hard issues," Ross said.

Joan Lomont has volunteered at both the shelter and the courthouse facility for seven years.

"Just knowing the help you can give - it is a very personal satisfaction. It is a more immediate gratification in the courtroom because, most of the time, a woman or a man can get an order of protection," Lomont said.

A Safe Place volunteers recently assisted an 84 year-old woman receive an Order of Protection.

Lomont became aware of A Safe Place when friends told her about it. She has helped with the Crisis Line and parenting groups.

"I retired from teaching and I wanted to work with children," she said.

A Safe Place works with Lake County schools to address such issues as violence in dating.

"We want to start at that age to lessen the impact on the adult population as they grow older," Ross said.

Ross, of Gurnee, has been assisting victims of domestic violence for eight years.

"Seeing the empowerment and how victims take control of their lives. Being safe is not a choice, but a right," Ross told Grayslake Exchange Club members.

The Safe Place crisis line phone number is 249-4450.

INQUEST: Held Wednesday

ment but has indicated he intends to have all of Lortie's charges dropped.

Lortie was arrested the night of June 26 at his Mundelein home after he called 911 to request an ambulance for his father, James P. Lortie, 53, who was not breathing.

Authorities said Dennis accused his younger brother, 14, of stealing money off his dresser, and struck him in the back, at which point their father intervened and told Dennis to go to his room. A scuffle between them then occurred.

Lortie and his father fell to the ground, whereupon Lortie, a former all-conference wrestler at Libertyville High School, put his arms around his father's neck in a choke hold for about one minute, releasing him after seeing his father's face turn blue, authorities said.

Mundelein Rescue responded to the 911 call, but were unable to revive him. The coroner listed the cause of death as asphyxia.

Lortie's trial is scheduled for Tuesday, Sept. 8, before Circuit Court Judge Stephen E. Walter.

The results of the inquest were not available before press time. —By Spencer Schein

A DIGEST OF STORIES MAKING HEADLINES THROUGHOUT OUR REGION

Meeting set for landfill cleanup

Antioch—The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency will host a public meeting Tuesday, Aug. 11, at 7 p.m. in Village Hall to explain a plan they propose to use to guide the cleanup of the H.O.D. Landfill site.

The H.O.D. landfill site is located east of Anita Street north of Route 173.

The federal EPA has concluded that cleanup actions are needed at the landfill to protect the environment and the health of people.

The proposed plan for the cleanup, containment, is consistent with the standard remedy for municipal landfills.

The proposed solutions are described by the U.S. EPA as cost effective and permanent.

Spoken and written comments about the proposed plans will be accepted from community residents at the Aug. 11 meeting.

Written comments will also be accepted until Thursday, Aug. 20 by Gordie Blum, U.S. EPA Community Involvement Coordinator, at the U.S. EPA at 77 West Jackson Boulevard in Chicago, 60604-3590.

Home Condemned in FL

Fox Lake—"I didn't want to touch it."

The sentiments of Fox Lake Building Commissioner Bill Hart told the tale of a home being classified as unfit to live in on the 100 block of Eagle Point Road.

According to Hart, on Sunday, July 26, Fox Lake Police and Lake County Animal Control entered the residence of Carter Hoyt, 42, and removed 36 starving and neglected pets from the home.

Also, according to police reports, the home was occupied by Hoyt's wife, Shirley, and their three children, ages 10, 8 and 6.

Animal control received a phone call by a neighbor in the area, complaining of the smell radiating from the house, reports said.

Animal control went to the scene, asking for assistance from the Fox Lake Police Department to gain access of the home.

According to reports, police noticed through a front window that at least 5 dogs were in the living room, one dog being chained to the couch by a leash.

More pets were found in the rear entry of the home, while police also noticed the smell of a gas leak radiating from the rear of the home. Police contact the Fox Lake Fire Department, who determined the gas leak was coming from a gas dryer, located near the rear of the building.

The gas leak was fixed, but it did not stop the smell.

According to police, feces lined the floor and numerous piles of unwashed laundry from the 36 pets in the home. According to one report, the officer on the scene estimated the feces had not been cleaned in the home for at least several months.

School considers tax increase

Gages Lake—Woodland District 50 Board members are preparing for a possible tax increase request in February, 1999.

Board members discussed the need for an educational fund increase during a goal setting session at its last board meeting.

"It is very clear we need to go for an educational find referendum. We need to make the public aware of our intentions. This is part of the strategic planning process and tied to finances available," Jerry Hinkley, school board president, said.

The school board has approved a $38 million budget for the present fiscal year. It had to tap into reserves to balance the 1998-99 budget.

"We have to start saying what the options will be for the finance committee," Betsy Awni, vice president of the board, said.

Board members said some tough decisions on cutbacks may lie ahead if additional funds are not forthcoming. No decision for the amount of an increase has been arrived at.

The fund is in need of an increase due to added staff in the past two years, including the new middle school.

"You're talking about staff cuts, and that is always painful," said Hinkley.

Concerned Citizens awareness

Thursday, July 23 to organize community concern about land development at Deep Lake Road and Grand Avenue.

The group announced intentions to circulate a petition, ask for assistance to monitor village meetings, distribute the first issue of their newsletter, and ask for donations to defray costs.

The meeting included general discussion about the planned unit development proposed by Paul Bach for the John W. Gridley property in the southwest corner of the intersection of Deep Lake Road and Grand Avenue.

"We're here to raise public awareness of what is happening in your community," said Larry Ward, a principal organizer of the meeting.

Ward stated that it was the mission of Concerned Citizens of Lake Villa to work for development of the property in accordance with the zoning ordinance, and to oppose action by the village board to enter into a planned unit development agreement for the property.

Ward asked interested citizens to call two numbers to volunteer to help. They are: 847-356-8857 or 847-265-8713. People who leave their name and number will be contacted and given more information.

Holiday Park construction coming

Fox Lake—Nearly one hundred people from Wooster Lake crammed into the Fox Lake Village Hall Thursday night to hear plans of the future expansion to come to Holiday Park, located on Route 134, in Ingleside.

However, the village did not grant rezoning the 120 acre parcel because Rion did not contact residents in the area within the specified time restraint.

According to village ordinances, Rion needed to notify residents within the area, namely the people of Wooster Lake, 30 days prior to the rezoning hearing. Many of the residents in the area were not notified, which led to a continuance by the Fox Lake zoning board until the third week of August.

"We could build whatever we wanted right now," said Jeff Azuse, spokesperson for Rion Enterprises. "We already have the zoning in the county to do whatever we want there."

Azuse and Rion Enterprises from Springfield, IL, came before the Fox Lake Village Zoning Board in an effort to have Holiday Park annexed into Fox Lake. The people of Wooster Lake are asking Rion to reconsider the changes that they have in store for Holiday Park, wanting to keep their rural area free of commercial businesses.

"We like our rural community the way it is," said Faith Calbert, Wooster Lake resident. "We don't want it ruined by a lot of traffic in the area. It's already too busy as it is."

Miss Wauconda to be crowned

Wauconda—The next Miss Wauconda is ... well, nobody knows until the night of Friday, July 31, when 1997 Miss Wauconda Sabrina Jablonski will crown her successor.

Eight young women are vying for the grand title, hoping to represent the community through the remainder of 1998 and first half of 1999. She will also have the honor of representing Wauconda in the at the Lake County Fair pageant in 1999.

The pageant will be held Friday, July 31, at the Concorde Banquets, on Rand Road in Kildeer. Advance tickets are being sold at $25 each by the Wauconda Chamber of Commerce. Cocktails are served at 6 p.m., dinner at 6:30 p.m., followed by the pageant at 8 p.m. Pageant-only tickets will be sold at the door for $25. For more information, call the chamber office, 526-5580.

The pageant is sponsored by the Wauconda Chamber of Commerce, which is offering prizes worth $2,250 in college scholarships available to the top three winners. The queen will receive a $1,000, with $750 going to the first runner-up and $500 to the second runner-up.

Villages form agreement

Mundelein—Village officials will demolish the village's Primary Waste Water Treatment Plant after all. That was the original plan, but until an Intergovernmental agreement between Mundelein and Vernon Hills was approved last week, the decision was not final.

Mundelein trustees voted 4-1 on July 27 to approve the demolition and abandonment of the plant, located off Butterfield Road on the Cuneo property in Vernon Hills. Demolishing the plant was part of the village's original contract with River City Construction, but needed final approval before going forward.

That occurred last week, when both villages approved of the agreement, which Mundelein Village Attorney Charles Marino thinks is a win-win situation for both communities. Mundelein can maintain the property, while Vernon Hills gets the plant removed, in an area that is smack-dab in the middle of White Deer Run Golf Course, open the public beginning Saturday, Aug. 1, said Larry Laschen, Vernon Hills village manager.

Vernon Hills will install a gate across an access road Mundelein had been using off Butterfield to access the plant, giving Mundelein a key to the lock. Mundelein will use Gregg's Parkway for the access, instead of the village access road, which crosses over the fairway of hole number three, and will receive two pieces of property from Vernon Hills within 30 days.

Village warns developer

Lindenhurst—A final deadline has been given to Meridian Development to correct outstanding development issues on property under development in the village.

The Lindenhurst Village Board unanimously agreed to consider pulling letters of credit for three Meridian developments at their July 27 meeting.

The matter was placed on the agenda for the Monday, August 10 board meeting.

This action followed complaints from many citizens at the July 27 meeting that Meridian has made progress on completing some of the promised work, but there is still considerable work to be done.

Also, a public hearing on a proposed new Meridian Development, Cross Creek, was held over for the fourth time by village trustees. It is to be continued at the Aug. 10 meeting.

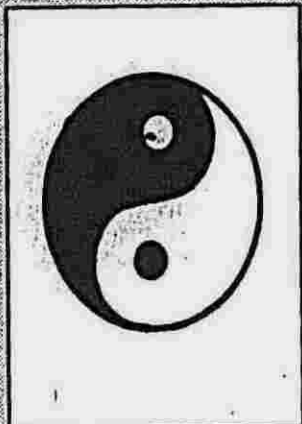

A request for approval of Harvest Hill architectural, landscaping and final plats, another Meridian development, was removed from the July 27 agenda by Mayor Paul Baumunk. Baumunk's action is in keeping with the village board's policy of proceeding no further on any Meridian projects until previous ones are completed to the board and resident's satisfaction.

A lesson in economics

Round Lake Unit School District 116 continues to be a district in crisis.

Having weathered a strike nearly three years ago, the division in the district continues to plague the Board of Education and the community.

Perhaps the biggest problem facing the school system is apathy on the part of the people who should care the most—citizens whose children are being educated by the district. Few ever attend school board meetings.

Student test scores are lower than in neighboring school districts and the high school drop out rate continues to rise in an age when young people are virtually unemployable without a high school diploma.

Newcomer to the school board Anthony Walesby, should be speaking for the community when he said, "given the problems we face, does giving the same person currently running the district a 25 percent pay raise make sense? No."

It's not about what other superintendents make and whether or not the increase in Superintendent Mary Davis' salary is simply keeping her in pace with her peers or if whether or not Davis is worthy of the additional salary.

It's about whether Round Lake School District officials can afford to pay the cost of raising the superintendent's salary and providing perks and other incentives not uncommon in the world of school administration.

When the school board held their ground against the teachers in the 1995 strike, we stood with the board, saying, "if they don't have the money to spend they can't raise salaries."

It wasn't about good teachers or comparable salaries to neighboring districts, it was about economics. Economics which have dictated teachers must be content with 2.5 percent average annual raises over the past six years.

Economics, not performance, dictate decisions in the world of private businesses. In the past the board has seen economics as the driving factor. They apparently didn't see economics as the driving factor in the whether or not they could afford to give Davis a 25 percent raise.

Surely, the teacher's union will now rally for a piece of the same pie Davis is eating from as they enter contract negotiations later this year.

The decision comes on the heels of the district passing a successful referendum for building improvements and breaking ground for their new early childhood center. Sure, the district has made strides in facilities but they can't afford this rise in salary.

The Board of Education just may find out they can't afford the raise they just gave the superintendent, and neither can their students and parents of the district, when they are left sitting idle as teachers once again walk the picket lines.

Fair offers glimpse of Lake County's heritage

The 70th Annual Lake County Fair is in full swing at the Grayslake fairgrounds offering residents a glimpse into Lake County's agriculture past.

The fair, running an extra day this year in honor of its 70th anniversary, has a variety of activities for all to enjoy.

Whether it's a visit to the 4-H barns to see the projects youngsters have toiled after or an evening in the grandstands watching a demolition derby or tractor pull, the Fair still holds a special magic that harkens back to a bygone era.

The annual fair features talent contests, dairy goat milking, livestock and craft exhibits as well as the annual queen pageants.

The fair is still a good bargain as well. General admission includes all grandstand events, and is just $5 for adults. Children under 12 admitted free. Parking is free, too.

Take a moment this week to recognize the work of county 4-Hers and the heritage of Lake County with a visit to the 70th annual Lake County Fair.

VIEWPOINT

'Overlay' system steams 847 users

Telephone users have a long history of whining. Latest example: The "overlay" system which appears headed our way, another exchange—224—that will be assigned to new customers and current customers who request new lines in the 847 area.

What really is burning the buttons of a lot of folks in the 847 area is the requirement of dialing "1" plus an area code for every phone call, even if it's only a few steps down the street.

Announced about a month ago by an obscure bureaucracy we didn't even know existed (whine, whine, gripe, gripe), the American Numbering Plan Administrator, 224 is due to be activated early next year, probably Jan. 23. Here's the rub about 224, say the critics: When 224 becomes operational, phone users will have to dial 11 digits to make calls.

Whoops. We've been talking about dialing. Who dials these days? Don't we all "touch" or punch numbers? OK, OK. So "punching"

BILL SCHROEDER
Publisher

11 digits sounds like a health club workout. Dialing is more gentle. So we'll talk about dialing. And hope we're all on the same page.

Truth is, all of us have been dialing more numbers than ever as telephone technology advances and commerce dreams up new uses for the telephone. My office phone has a five digit access code for the long distance provider. All of us regularly dial a flock of extra digits when that well known mechanical voice drones, "Dial 1 for a complaint, Dial 2 to place an order, Dial 3, etc., etc. Dial 0 for operator, etc. etc."

If you think there's a lot of complaining about the new 224 overlay, you either forgot or are too young to remember the furor when Illinois Bell took away our alpha prefixes and replaced them with—gad—numbers. The nasty old phone company scrubbed hometown prefixes in the early dial days to make way for computerized exchanges. Goodbye Libertyville and Mundelein. Out the window went Baldwin (Grayslake), Justice (Fox Lake), Kimball (Round Lake), Majestic and Ontario (Waukegan and Gurnee).

Even before that, there were scads of complaints when automated dialing replaced the "Number Please" live operators at central switchboards. Personal phone connection service was ripped out by the throat. But we got over it. And we'll get over the overlay.

Come on phone users. Get a life!

Illinois Tollway—Time for a change

When the taxpayers spend almost $1 million dollars a day for a type of service, isn't it right that there should be some oversight on how those services are performed? And doesn't it make sense that the oversight should be by those who have a direct link with the taxpayers?

Of course, the quasi-public agency that runs amok is the Illinois State Toll Highway Authority. A board appointed by the governor runs the tollway authority, and there have been enough scandals to suggest that many reforms in the system must be adopted. State Rep. Lauren Beth Gash (D-Deerfield) has introduced a series of reforms that would bring responsible accountability to tollway users, but she, up to now, has been unsuccessful.

I know what Rep. Gash is facing because I tried too, to battle the system. Tollway users don't now it, but some of those coins that they throw into the toll booth boxes finance high-powered lobbyists to defeat any meaningful reforms. Not that the lobbyists are really necessary, because governors and the legislative "wheelers and dealers" like to see the tollway system remain just as it is.

When the Illinois State Toll Highway "Commission" was created in 1953, it made sense. Self-liquidating bonds were used to finance the Tri-State Tollway, the Northwest to Rockford, and the east-west just past

SEEING IT THROUGH
John S. Matijevich

Aurora. At the time, the thrust of the tollway system was to rim the metropolitan Chicago area. A goodly percentage of tollpayers were out-of-state residents. Legislators jumped at the prospect of having someone else foot the bill to construct the highways.

Another appealing feature of the enabling law that created the tollway system was that when the bonds to construct those three tollways were paid off, the tollways would become freeways. Now, 45 years after the tollway system was created, we are still tossing coins into the toll boxes.

You say how did they get away with that when it was written into the law that the tollways would become freeways. Well, the tollway was so successful for the bondholders, not to mention others who fed off of its success, that they conjured up the scheme whereby bonds would never be retired. Build road extensions, even if they aren't needed, and float more bond issues.

The first scheme to keep the tollway in business was a real joke. They extended the East-West Toll-way from its end point just past Aurora westward to the hub of activity called Sterling. There was no way that tolls from Aurora to Sterling could pay off the construction of the new stretch of highway, but that is just what the policy makers wanted. They never wanted the bonds to be paid off. They want the tollway system to live into perpetuity. Board members came and went but the result was always the same—run the tollway system like it belongs to us, meaning the board and bondholders. In fact, I have heard board members say publicly, "we are beholden to no one but the bondholders." That is arrogance to the "nth" degree, but it seems to come naturally for the tollway board. They don't give a hoot for tollway users even though commuter taxpayers now pay more than 80 percent of the tollway revenue, a far cry from when the out-of-staters were coughing up the tolls.

I recall quite vividly when a Chairman Donald Bonniwell of the Tollway agency stated publicly that tollway bonds would be paid off by 1980. At the time, he said that the Illinois Tollway, and particularly the Tri-State portion of it, was the most prosperous in the country. So, you can understand why the greedy wanted to perpetuate it.

A strict interpretation of the tollway law was that monies collected to pay off bonds on one part of a

Picnic with Poshard

Lake County residents will have an opportunity to lunch with Democratic candidate for Illinois governor Glenn Poshard, Sunday, as the Waukegan Democratic Organization hosts a fundraiser from 5 to 8 p.m. at Belvidere Park.

Hot dogs, hamburgers and patriotic tunes will be on the menu as the Waukegan Symphony Brass Quintet will perform a medley of marches and show tunes.

"It's going to be like an exciting political convention in a park," said Waukegan Democratic Chairman Larry McShane.

The event is open to all with a free-will donation appreciated. For more information call 604-3165.

Salvi picks up labor support

Republican nominee for Secretary of State Al Salvi is beaming after picking up a glowing endorsement from Operating Engineers Local 150. The union represents 18,000 members whose jurisdiction spans Illinois.

The union says it is supporting Salvi because "he has shown he is a friend of labor."

Higher expectations

Lynda Paul, Democratic candidate for Lake County Treasurer, is citing the missing $2.5 million in Fox Lake area sewer revenues due to the county, as a reason why voters must carefully weigh the qualifications of candidates prior to stepping into the voting booth.

"It's time to expect more from our public officials," Paul said. "We, as residents, should demand candidates have the skills and qualifications needed for the office they seek."

Paul will be among many politicians making appearances at the Lake County Fair this week.

She is a CPA and currently works as a registered investment advisor and financial planner.

Filing period

The filing period for candidates of new political parties starts July 27 and runs through Aug. 3, according to Lake County Clerk Willard Helander. Following completion, the office will finalize the list for the November general election. More information is available at the clerk's web site, co.lake.il.us/cntyclk.

Then, let the games begin.

Wins Jefferson award

Congressman John E. Porter (R-Dist. 10) recently received the Food Distribution Industry's 1998 Thomas Jefferson Award for supporting sound fiscal policy with minimal government intervention. Seems Porter was just following party line on this one.

Salvi: Gathers labor support.

Helander: Prepares for final filings

Porter: Earns award for voting record

They're back—summer's pesky yellow friends

One day last September, I came home to find we had been invaded by some 40 unwelcome intruders—wasps.

I had met the enemy and they were yellow jackets, one of summer's most annoying and nasty pests.

They had built a nest inside our aluminum siding; hundreds of them, busy as bees. Instead of staying outside, they were slithering through a tiny crack in a window frame. They were all over the house and our cats were having a ball, swatting them down like King Kong did with the airplanes.

I don't recall the sequence but I may have created that monster of a situation by bug-spraying them outside their nest. Maybe their only way out was to come in.

I managed to kill the ones in the house without harming any humans or pets. Then I called a famous pest-control company that wanted $150 or more to treat the problem. I sought a second opinion and my local pest-control service did an excellent job for $80. Plus, they were pleasant and helpful in explaining the problem and the solution.

Like any normal, nervous arachnophobiac, I detest spiders, not to mention slimy snakes. But bees and their ilk never bothered me. If they came buzzing around I would just backhand them into the next area code.

But since the day I had to confront an angry swarm of 40 wasps inside my house, I get the willies. Yellow jackets, my dictionary says, can sting repeatedly and painfully.

And last week they were back. It's yellow-jacket season for the rest of summer and they were busy building nests in three niches outside our house. The females who survived the winter are forming new colonies.

THE PFARR CORNER

Jerry Pfarr

But, aha, this time we may have nipped the nuisance in the bud. My pest-control specialist in wasps came over and wiped out all three areas of activity.

Because we had a mild winter, experts say, yellow jackets will be very prolific this season. Drink carefully from your beer and soda-pop cans.

By September, a nest might include a couple thousand of those little varmints. Builders are removing trees, so our homes are becoming wasp motels. "This year it's going to be horrendous," one bug killer said. Hardware stores are hip. I have noticed six types of yellow-jacket traps for sale, ranging from the $4.55 "Incredible Wasp Trap" to a fancy one I bought for $12.

I may not use it. My advisors tell me the traps, placed away from human activity, do attract and kill wasps but don't get at the source, the nests.

Store shelves also feature many bug sprays, including a wasp and hornet killer that zaps 'em out of the air from 20 feet. What an adult toy!

Wasps don't sting unless provoked. While they destroy fruit, they also destroy other insects. Only the queens survive the winter.

So, fellow yellow-jacket haters, here we go again. Fertile males and females are being hatched. They mate when they mature and, wouldn't you know it, after the matings the males die.

Oh, well, better than death by insecticide.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The public will continue to pay if good men do nothing

There were only a few surprises at the monthly Libertyville Township Board meeting July 16. Jack Martin and his sidekick, Pat Connors, were there in their usual role, threatening a law suit if the Town Board didn't do their bidding, and in the same breath implying their only motivation was to protect the taxpayers. There were a few present who were afraid they will be driven out of their homes by high taxes. That may be, but not because of Open Space—but because of development and the need to provide for new schools, libraries and roads.

Thus the purpose of this letter to the editor. Down through history, the rich and powerful have used their money and position to promote their own self-serving agendas, and all too often they have succeeded. The only method the masses ever had was to band together, and equally important, to stick together, to ensure they got a fair shake.

So it is with the threatened law suit by Martin and Connors to stop the Open Space program once again. They used the same tactics in 1989, and were highly successful in those efforts to deceive the public, and to cause the change of political leadership both at the township and county level. Most people know now the costly results of that change in direction.

The issues are over-development, traffic congestion, and more schools, which always mean higher taxes. More Open Space always means stabilized taxes and greatly improved property values and quality of life. The question the public must answer: Is it worth fighting for? The public will pay either way, but over development will cost several times more.

Edmund Burke once wrote: The only thing necessary for the triumph of evil is for good men to do nothing.

Board right in not funding pool

The people in Gurnee want a park district to provide areas of open space in neighborhoods, where people can gather for private or public purposes—such as picnics, concerts, ball games or pleasant walks in the summer, fall, winter and spring.

There is nothing wrong with some people desiring a fancy expensive swimming pool complex and buildings full of exercise equipment and services. It's only wrong if they ask others to pay for these facilities on their behalf.

The park district doesn't belong in this arena. That is the reason they continue to be rebuffed on the pool issue. The village board wisely voted themselves out as a participant in this situation. This should continue to be their position—whether the amount requested is $400,000; $100,000 or $100 annually. If they decide to intercede, then who needs a park district? The empire-building needs to be arrested in Gurnee, simply because the citizens don't want these type of people working for us anymore.

Trustees Amaden, Ratfelders and Chamberlain should note this and learn a lesson that the majority of their constituents continue to point out to all.

Not in favor of increase

I am writing this letter to clarify any confusion over my role in the recent Round Lake Area School Board vote on the superintendent's contract. It was previously reported that the June 25, Board vote was unanimous in favor of giving the superintendent a 25 percent pay raise. As pointed out in the July 17 issue of the Round Lake News, I was on a family vacation and was not present during the vote. Prior to leaving for my vacation I informed the School Board President Linda Molitor, that I was strongly opposed to extending the superintendent's contract, much less giving her a huge raise. Even so, the rest of the Board voted 6-0 to extend the contract, along with the unwarranted pay raise.

During the July 16 School Board meeting, the Board President said that the Board was "elated" to have Dr. Davis staying on as superintendent of District 116.

Unfortunately, our District faces serious problems, such as financial difficulties and low overall standardized test scores. Given the problems we face does giving the same person currently running the District a 25 percent pay raise make sense? No. It's time for us to say enough is enough. A lot of our hard-earned tax money goes to our school district. We as a community have the right to expect nothing but the best for our children.

I believe we need a school board and superintendent who will be responsive to the residents of this community. We need a group of dedicated people who will embark on a course that will make our District what it can and should be. The School Board's action on June 25 was another step in the wrong direction.

SEEING: Time for a change

tollway could not be used to finance new stretches of tollway. The tollway board, arrogant as always, snuffed their noses at the law and proceeded to get approval to build the North-South Tollway through DuPage County. If you need further information on how that was maneuvered, ask the recently retired DuPage County Board chairman Gayle Franzen, who did quite well selling the bonds for that project.

The state of Illinois had an Auditor General by the name of Robert Cronson, who took exception to the way the Tollway Board financed construction of the North-South Tollway. He said that they violated the law by using funds paid by motorists who were putting their coins into the Tri-State and other toll boxes. The tollway board said that they disagreed with him, but they must have thought that he was right because they moved to change the law.

In legislation that was passed about 4 a.m. in the morning on the last day of the session in early July of 1989, they changed the law so that they can construct a tollway "from here to eternity" financed by existing tollway revenues. That was another guarantee that the tollway remain a self-perpetuating agency. That "past midnight massacre" added other clauses that were "anti-taxpayer." For example, when the tollway authority received approval to construct a tollway, they reimbursed the Dept. of Transportation for monies spent on right-of-way purchases. The "late night law" did away with that, turning such property over to the Tollway Authority gratis. That is property bought with your gas taxes.

The world's best business school

Whatever is good to know is difficult to learn.

— Greek Proverb

Travel around the country and ask folks about good business schools. You'll get about as many answers as folks you ask. You will hear names such as Stanford, Harvard, Wharton, Northwestern, the University of Michigan and the University of Texas. Of course, there are dozens of other worthy mentions.

However, not one of these prestigious schools get my nod as the world's best business school. You see if you graduate from one of the top business schools, you're going to know just about the same thing as everyone else who graduates there. This is good, but only the beginning. In the real world of business you soon find that a great education still leaves you with huge gaps of ignorance.

Therefore, I contend that the world's best business school won't be found on any list. It isn't accredited, and doesn't require a high GMAT or GRE score, isn't free, but doesn't charge tuition. There are many dropouts, but no graduates. Those who stay enrolled will attend classes the rest of their lives.

The world's best business school is the University of Life-Long Learning. Students study the success of others. Their goal is to identify the best practices utilized by successful firms. Then they adapt those practices for their own use.

How to take classes

To enroll in classes at the University of Life-Long Learning, just follow the simple steps listed below. All courses are repeated unexpectedly.

• Look. Jonathan Swift said, "A stander-by may sometimes, perhaps, see more of the game than he who plays it." Train yourself to be curious. Wonder why things are the way they are, then look for answers. Look at magazines, books, machines, competitors, problems and people. You can learn a lot just by looking around.

• Ask. While you're looking, you're going to see a lot of things you know nothing about. Ask why. Ask how. When you meet people who have specific areas of expertise, ask about it.

• Listen. Doug Larson said, "Wisdom is the reward you get for a lifetime of listening when you'd have preferred to talk." Becoming a good listener takes a lot of work. It is hard work to keep still. You don't learn much by sharing what you already know with others. Hold your thoughts, stay tuned in and don't make snap judgments. Ask follow-up questions to ensure you get the whole story.

• Stop. Sometimes to profit from looking, asking and listening you have to stop first. Often when you're busy working you won't have time to look, ask or listen. Take a time-out. Get away for awhile. Stand still in a new place and take a good look around.

• Analyze. Take the elements you've seen, heard and asked about apart in your mind. See how various elements fit together. If you are analyzing a competitor's customer service, watch how your competitor treats customers. Consider how he

Abbott scholarship winners announced

17 local students recognized for accounting skills

Abbott Laboratories, in conjunction with the College of Lake County (CLC) and area high schools, recently announced the winners of its 1998 high school accounting contest. The 1998 winner of the first-year accounting scholarship was Linnea Slemmons, a sophomore at Warren Township High School, who scored highest on the first-year test.

Dan Christian, a senior from Mundelein High School, received the first place scholarship for the second-year test. Both students will apply their scholarships toward the colleges of their choice. Fifteen other area students received awards in this contest, which involved approximately 200 participants in ninth through twelfth grades from more than a dozen Lake County high schools.

More than 4,200 students have participated in the contest over the past 19 years.

Robert Hoffman, vice president and controller of Abbott's Pharmaceutical Products Division and the company coordinator for the contest, said, "This is a fun way to stimulate interest in accounting as a profession." ## Northwestern Mutual is 'Most Admired Company' says Fortune

Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance has once again recognized by Fortune magazine as America's "most Admired" life insurance company, according to David R. O'Brien, who heads the company's district agency in Gurnee. Northwestern Mutual has held this distinction since Fortune first began this ranking system in 1983. The nation's fifth largest life insurance company, Northwestern also received the highest rating for financial soundness, products and services, quality of management, corporate responsibility, and talent.

"We may be known as 'The Quiet Company', but our reputation speaks loud and clear about our commitment to lead the industry in the areas that matter the most," said O'Brien. "What could be more important than financial soundness, hiring talented agents, and delivering what are considered to be the highest quality products and services in the business?"

The O'Brien district agency offers specialized assistance to its clients in the areas of personal, estate, retirement, small business and benefits planning.

Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance has assets of $72 billion and 1997 revenue of more than $12 billion. Based in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, the company is owned by 2.6 million policy owners and has 7,200 agents in 50 states and the District of Columbia.

Setting the record straight on flood insurance

Did you know that buildings in areas with the greatest risk of flooding, called Special Flood Hazard Areas, have a 26 percent chance of being flooded during a 30-year mortgage and that about 45 percent of our flood damage sites are not in a mapped floodplain? The Lake County Stormwater Management Commission (SMC) is taking on the issue of flood insurance to get the message out on the misconceptions about flood insurance, and the need to get flood insurance.

"Flood insurance is one of the easiest things to do to protect yourself against flood loss and yet, it is estimated that only 25 percent of the floodprone properties in northeastern Illinois are covered by flood insurance," said Ward Miller, Director, SMC. According to the Federal Emergency Management Agency's (FEMA) facts sheets on flood insurance, those most common reactions to buying insurance include it's too expensive. Lake County alone has approximately 3,392 policy holders with an annual average premium of approximately $400.

Another misnomer is that disaster assistance following a flood event will be available, so one does not need to buy flood insurance. In fact, to qualify for disaster funds, the President must declare a major disaster and that more than 90 percent of all disasters are not Presidentially declared. Most forms of Federal disaster assistance in those cases are in the form of a loan that must be paid back with interest.

Lastly, because you've never flooded before doesn't mean you shouldn't be prepared. SMC has identified over 350 flood hazards areas throughout the county. While there are several types of flood hazards, the potential for flood risk is more severe because there are more and more buildings, roads and parking lots.

The national Flood Insurance Program (NFIP) was created in 1968 through the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) to provide affordable flood insurance to people who live in areas with the greatest risk of flooding. Everyone in a participating community of the NFIP can buy flood insurance. Of Lake County's 53 communities including the County of Lake, only four are not in the NFIP program. Those include Hainesville, Highwood, Indian Creek and Volo.

To clear up misconceptions about flood insurance, FEMA's "Myths and Facts About the NFIP" addresses some typical questions:

• Myth: Homeowners' insurance policies cover flooding. Unfortunately, many homeowners do not find this out until it is too late. Federal flood insurance protects your most valuable assets—your home and belongings.

• Myth: You can't buy flood insurance if your property has been flooded. It doesn't matter how many times your home, apartment or business has flooded. You are still eligible to purchase flood insurance, provided your community is participating in the NFIP.

• Myth: Federal flood insurance can only be purchased through the NFIP directly. NFIP flood insurance is sold through private insurance companies and agents, and is backed by the Federal government.

• Myth: The NFIP does not offer any type of basement coverage. Yes it does. Under NFIP building coverage, basements are insured for cleanup and items used to service the building, such as furnaces, hot-water heaters, air conditioners, utility connections, circuit breaker boxes, as well as the repair of structural damage to basement walls. Items in basement insured under NFIP contents coverage include clothes washers and dryers, and food freezers and the food in them. Improvements to a basement, such as finished walls, floors, or ceilings, as well as personal belongings located in a basement, are not covered in either NFIP building or contents coverage.

While the focus for these properties is acquisition, mitigation options for other areas will be recommended in SMC's draft Flood Hazard Mitigation Plan (FHMP). The plan which will be adopted by SMC and the county currently identifies over 350 flood hazards areas in the county. It is the most comprehensive list of its kind in the county and documents types of flood hazards by area. The plan once completed will recommend mitigation options that include floodproofing and the simple option of buying flood insurance.

Reaching a level of safety and comfort from the threat of flooding is SMC's goal. Being aware of the risks and being prepared is another.

or she trains employees. Look at how all the elements flow together to ensure customer satisfaction.

• Adapt. Good ideas abound. The problem with good ideas is seeing just how they can fit into your business plans. Part of the technique of analyzing is to identify elements of other's ideas that you can adapt for your own use. Look for ways that you can modify an idea to create something new. Many of today's best innovations are only new adaptations of old ideas and products.

• Repeat. You can take as many courses again as you choose. No limit. No fees and no penalties for too many hours. Keep learning. What a great school. One can only wonder why the enrollment is so low.

How To Survive The Job Search

By Nancy Sakol

Dear ...Search,

I am a recent college graduate who was recruited by a well established corporation in early April. The corporation has invited me out for some intense interviewing process. I will be flying out to meet with these people just outside the Denver area in mid-May. I feel comfortable about meeting with the people I have spoken to over the past month. My concern is that the owner of the company is picking me up from the airport and I have not previously spoken to the man. I am afraid of being at a loss for what to say while in the car for 40 minutes and definitely concerned about having a lull in the conversation. Can you give me some tips on what topics to hit on in the case of this happening? Thank you.

G.A.-Lake Forest

Dear G.A.,

Good question and asked more often than you think. You can never go wrong by starting out the car ride by asking question such as...Have you always lived in the Denver area?...Has your corporation always resided in the Denver area? If you have been to Denver before, no matter how long ago, it is always safe to say things such as...I had forgotten how beautiful the mountains are. Chances are, the individual will most likely enjoy talking about himself and his corporation, so you can never go wrong with lead-in statements such as I have offered. Let the conversation take its own path. Forty minutes will go by quick. Just remember that before words come out of your mouth, be sure they are what you want the person or people to hear. Good Luck!

Dear ...Search,

I have been working with an employment agency for the past 3 months, the counselor that I am working with seems to be sending me out on too many interviews that I am not qualified for. I have said on many occasions that I don't feel that job is right for me or that I am not qualified to do this. They continually send me anyway, saying things like...You won't know unless you try. Quite often the person interviewing me will stop in the middle of an interview and say something like...I don't understand the service sending you here for this position. Do I have the right to say that I do not feel the position is right for me? I am afraid that if I say that, that the service will stop sending me to interviews. I am getting a bit frustrated by always being there for interviews that apparently are not landing me anything but wasted time. What do you suggest.

T.B.-Gurnee

Dear T.B.,

I will guess that you are registered with only one employment service. While this may have sufficed for the short term, it appears as though you have had an insufficient 3 month search. Cut your losses now! Register with a reputable service and continue to search on your own as well. You absolutely have the right to turn down any interview you wish not to attend, but keep in mind, that a good employment counselor knows all about the company and position for which they send you out. Once the decision has been made by you to go on the interview...stick to it.

Letters can be sent to Nancy Sakol c/o Lakeland Newspapers, P.O. Box 268, Grayslake, IL 60030

The Borges (405-39) has been designed to fit on the narrower, deeper lots that are becoming more common. Because space has become precious, the Borges is compact in size yet spacious in living area. The home has 2,032 square feet, with a bay window to give the exterior a more country look.

The two car garage has a shop on the left side, with double doors for storing the lawnmower, wheelbarrow, or any other tools. The door from the garage opens into the utility room. There is a sink available for clean-up.

The entrance of the Borges has a covered porch. To the left of the entry is the kitchen, with a huge walk-in pantry. Over the sink is a garden window, supplying the kitchen with light and warmth. The cooking island contains an eating bar and there is a compact built-in desk. The nook has a large bay window with a view of the outdoors.

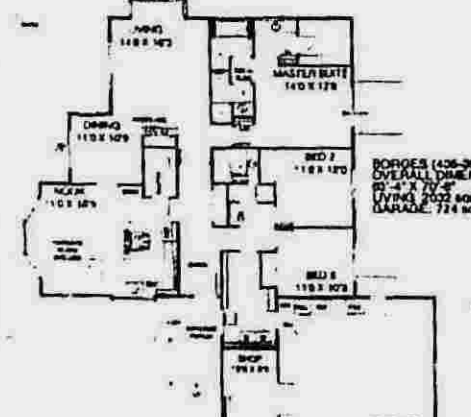

A formal dining room opens onto the patio through glass doors. Adjacent to the dining area is a fireplace facing into the living room. A bay window that could contain a window seat provides light, along with the large window facing the patio.

The master suite opens off the living room, with a corner walk-in closet, two linen closets, a separate sink area, and dual bathrooms. There is a tub in one part, while the other has a sink and shower. Solar-tubes have been used to provide natural lighting.

Bedrooms 2 and 3 have access to a full bath. Solar-tub lighting has been provided in this bath also. A large closet along with a linen closet is located off the bath area, available to the two bedrooms.

The Borges would be great for the young family, looking for more room, or the empty nesters who wish to lower their square footage, but still have a gracious home with open living space.

For a study kit of the BORGES (405-39LP80) send $14.95, to Landmark Designs, 33127 Saginaw Rd., E., Cottage Grove, OR 97424. (Specify plan name & number for kit). For a collection of plan books, send $20.00, or save by ordering the kit and collection together for $29.95, or call 1-800-562-1151.

Play Better Golf with JACK NICKLAUS

ON'T PLAY GOLF WITH "TUNNEL VISION." JUST AUTOMATICALLY AIMING AT THE PINS.

THE MORE ANALYTICAL YOU ARE THE BETTER YOU'LL SCORE. IRRESPECTIVE OF YOUR SHOT-MAKING ABILITIES.

FOR INSTANCE, ON VERY DANGEROUS HOLES LIKE THIS ONE, ALL SKILL LEVELS SHOULD AIM FOR THE CENTER OF THE GREEN. TAKE TWO PUTTS AND GO ON THEIR WAY - ESPECIALLY IN STROKE-PLAY COMPETITION. A PAR OR BOGEY KEEPS YOU IN THE BALL GAME WHICH ISN'T THE CASE WITH AN 8 OR A 9.

WHAT MUSTN'T HAPPEN IS EVEN THE SLIGHTEST FORWARD OR UPWARD MOVEMENT OF THE HEAD BEFORE IMPACT.
